the nineteen hundred and seventy-five

The Buccaneer staff has chosen the symbol "B" to represent the 1975 edition of the Buccaneer. This symbol stands for Buccaneer spirit and pride. Each student attending East Tennessee State University is a Buccaneer whether through involvement in campus activities or through simple class attendance. Each of us supports the university in a different way. We all have varied interests and ideas concerning a wide variety of subjects. These different aspects of life at East Tennessee State University will now be represented by one symbol. The "B" is your symbol—for in your own way—you are a Buccaneer.

yet progress in the passage of time.

E.T.S.U. Spreads the Welcome Mat

First impressions are often lasting ones, and orientation visits are often the deciding factor in a prospective student's choice of colleges. With this in mind, Freshman Orientation is E.T.S.U.'s chance to impress upon the visitor all of our university's qualities. Through tours, introductory speeches, group discussions and question-answer periods, students and administration both take the opportunity to try to sway the individuals toward E.T.S.U.

Fall Quarter Enrolls 9,050

9,050 students enrolled at East Tennessee State University in the fall. This number includes the students attending the university branches in Bristol, Greeneville, and Kingsport.

Registration for classes can be very frustrating. Filling out card after card is a necessary chore. Time conflicts seem to plague many students. By the end of the day students, advisors, and registration workers enjoy a welcomed time of relief.

Returning Students Stir Campus to Life

The quiet campus belied an outburst of activity when students returned in the fall. Many minor inconveniences such as moving into the dormitory, buying books, and registration were very tiresome. However, students were glad to return to school and renew old acquaintances.

Commuting Can Be a Problem

E.T.S.U. is different from many other universities, in that over two-thirds of its student body commutes to school. While enrollment has not increased, the number of students driving to school has greatly increased.

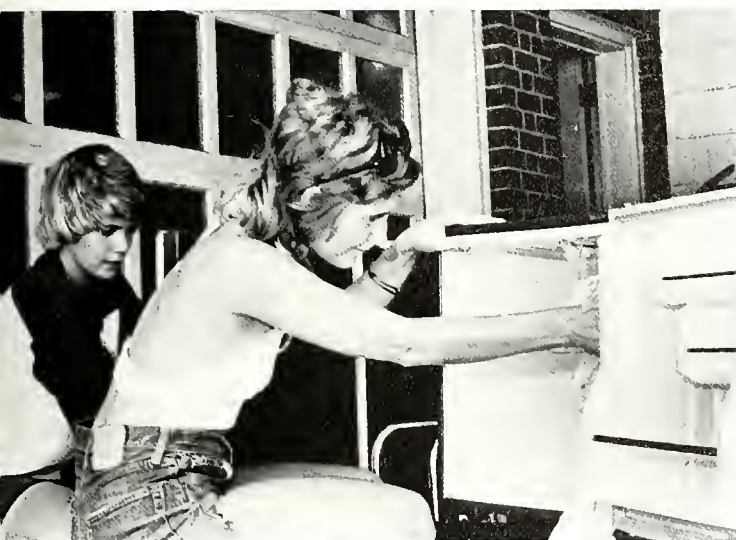

Commuters are faced with many obstacles. Among them, parking is the number one dilemma. Many changes have been made in policies concerning parking due to the increased construction on the campus. Visitor parking has been marked more clearly. Faculty and staff spaces were marked with numbered metal plates to prevent weather from removing the markings.

Dorms are Temporary Homes

The dormitory is a temporary home for some college students. It is a place where bustling activity can be found almost every hour of the day. Many hours are spent talking, playing cards, studying, and making new friends. Living in a dormitory can be a part of one's total educational experience. Many lessons are learned while living and working together.

SGA Elections

Student government elections are held every spring quarter at East Tennessee State University. Elected offices of the Student Government Association include President, Vice-President, and Secretary. Senate members are also elected at this time. All students have a chance to vote for their candidates in the University Center Ballroom. As a result of the 1974 elections, Mark Hansen was named President of the Student Government Association. Steve Herrin was chosen Vice-President, and Susan Carl was elected Secretary-Treasurer.

HOMECOMING

1974

"Toasts and Cheers for the Buccaneers" was the theme as an atmosphere of Buccaneer spirit prevailed during Homecoming Week at East Tennessee State University. The week was a kaleidoscope of activity and excitement, beginning Monday and Tuesday with homecoming queen and court elections. Tuesday night students had a delightful, foot-stomping time at the Oldtime Mountain Music Show in the University Center Ballroom, sponsored by the University Center Program Committee. Wednesday afternoon, several campus organizations participated in a car parade from Memorial Stadium to the campus. When darkness fell, a bonfire was held at the intramural field. A pep rally followed, led by the Big Blue cheerleaders and a fun-loving, but cold, crowd of fans. The pep rally was highlighted by a splendid performance by the E.T.S.U. majorettes and "The Band with the Sound." Soon afterwards, the lights went out and a resounding chorus of "oohs" and "ahs" spread throughout the crowd as a magnificent fireworks display concluded the night's activities. Other Big Blue supporters showed their spirit in various ways. The E.T.S.U. Theater presented a play, "The House of Blue Leaves," directed by Mr. Jack Peyrouse. Since the beginning of the week, several campus organizations spent much of their time and effort on the construction and decoration of homecoming displays. Throughout the week, students had been witnessing the revelation of creative displays from large wooden frames. By the time of the judging on Friday afternoon, rumors that the campus had been invaded by giant spiders, mice, and eagles were being whispered over the entire campus. These rumors were confirmed when the winners were chosen. First place was awarded to Sigma Kappa Sorority. Alpha Phi Omega, a men's service fraternity, took second place honors, and third place was won by the American Chemical Society. Friday night, the annual homecoming concert was held for the first time at Freedom Hall Civic Center in Johnson City. The concert featured Mountain and was highlighted by the special appearance of the Atlanta Rhythm Section. There was much controversy and confusion concerning the homecoming concert for 1974. After several cancellations and many rumors, E.T.S.U. students were thankful for the outstanding performance given by these two fine groups.

Senior Pat Earnest Reigns Over 1974 Homecoming Events

Homecoming is always a special treat for alumni at East Tennessee State University. This year, the Annual Alumni Barbecue was held in the University Center Ballroom. The barbecue was attended by a great number of alumni and proved to be successful in rekindling old college friendships. The part of homecoming week that everyone had been waiting for finally arrived Saturday afternoon when the Bucs took on the Morehead State Eagles in Memorial Stadium. With the stands packed with enthusiastic supporters, Big Blue spirit filled the stadium. From the opening kickoff, the Bucs proved to their fans that they were determined to destroy their previous tradition of losing their homecoming game. With a powerful offense that smashed Morehead's defense, the mighty Bucs rolled to a 13-0 victory over the Eagles. The halftime festivities included a show by the E.T.S.U. Marching Band and the crowning of the 1974 homecoming queen. Pat Earnest, a senior Physical Education major was chosen queen. Pat was sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Council. Nancy Snidow was named senior attendant, and Donna Martin elected junior attendant. Sophomore representative was Cynthia Wilson, and Pam Baer was selected freshman attendant. For the first time ever, the Kingsport University Center decided to select an attendant to represent the center on the homecoming court. Their representative was Amy Ashworth. The 1974 Buccaneer homecoming proved to students and faculty alike that with a strong showing of Big Blue spirit, any E.T.S.U. homecoming can be as successful as 1974. It will be remembered as one of the best.

Sylvia Coghurn Chosen Miss Buccaneer

The annual Miss Buccaneer pageant was held on the evening of June 11 in the University Center ballroom. The pageant was sponsored by the U.S. Bank and was broadcast live on WISN 12. Sylvia Coghurn, a senior political science major from Waupesa, was chosen Miss Buccaneer.

The fifteen contestants, including Miss Buccaneer, were judged on the basis of intelligence, poise, beauty, personality, and community participation. Contestants participated in a variety of events, including a talent competition.

Debbie Weiss, a freshman from Oshkosh, was named first runner-up, and Tanya Thompson was named second runner-up. Third runner-up was Alana Jones, and Pam Sims was named fourth runner-up.

Kingsport Center—Growing to Meet the Need

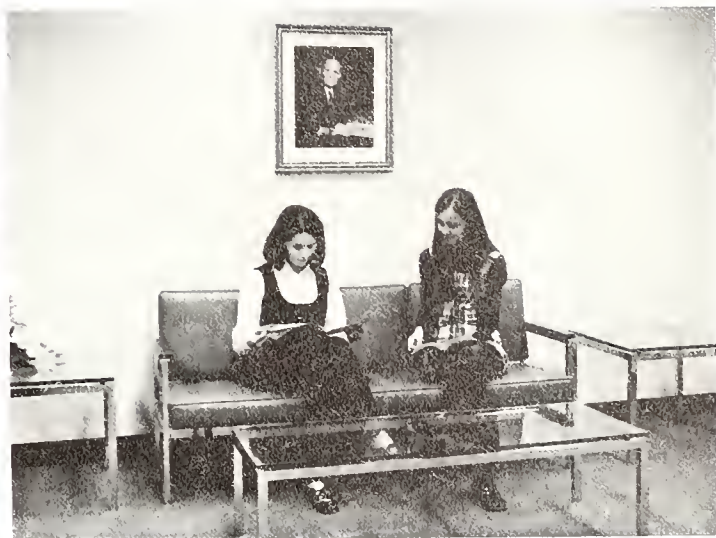

Kingsport—the home of the Kingsport University Center—is a community that has grown in the fifty years since the founding fathers envisioned it as a “site for a fine industrial city.” East Tennessee State College established the Kingsport Center in 1959.

The center is totally climatically controlled and has over 63,000 square feet of usable floor space. Thirty-eight classrooms, numerous storage areas, a gymnasium, a student lounge, a library, a bookstore, one chemistry and two biology laboratories, and several administrative offices make the building totally functional.

Emmett Kelly, Jr. Circus Comes to E.T.S.U.

The University Center Program Committee sponsored the Emmett Kelly, Jr. Circus during spring quarter. The circus was a rare event to be held in the university gymnasium. The two performances were well-attended and enjoyed by all.

Concerts

The University Center Program Committee worked hard to schedule concerts for the 1974-75 school year. The spring concert featured Poco and the Golden Earring. Johnny Cash and June Carter also performed during the quarter. The homecoming concert was held at Freedom Hall Civic Center. This concert featured Mountain and the Atlanta Rhythm Section. Other concerts rounding out the year included the Freddie Cole Trio and the Polish National Radio Symphony.

Ten coeds competed for the title of Miss East Tennessee State University in the University Center Program Committee sponsored pageant which is a preliminary to the Miss Tennessee and Miss America pageants. The contestants participated in swimsuit, evening gown, and talent competition.

Miss Cynthia Angel was crowned the 1975 winner. Cynthia played a piano solo as her talent presentation. The new Miss E.T.S.U. is a sophomore from Johnson City. Cathy Moulden, a freshman from Jefferson City, was named first runner-up and Miss Congeniality. Second runner-up was Susan Gray, a sophomore from Mountain City. The other two contestants making the top five finalists included Pam Baer, a sophomore from Bristol, and Doris Knisley, a freshman from Johnson City.

Mrs. Brenda Seal Kemp, Miss E.T.S.U. 1968, the scheduled emcee, was unable to attend due to sickness. Miss Joy Kegley, pageant producer and director, was mistress of ceremonies for the evening. Entertainment was provided by the E.T.S.U. Studio Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Bill Scott. Judy Beidleman and her brother, Arthur also performed during the pageant.

Campus Police Serve the Students

Maintaining the safety and security of the students, faculty, and school property, and enforcing traffic regulations are the primary functions of the Campus Police force. There are approximately thirteen men on the force. The Campus Police provide services for the university such as control and regulation of traffic, patrol of parking lots, reporting of violations, and providing information and directions for campus visitors.

Campus Growth Marks Continuing Progress

The campus of East Tennessee State University is constantly changing. The year 1974 was no exception. Four new buildings are now being planned or are under construction or renovation.

On February 14, 1975, Governor Ray Blanton came to East Tennessee State University to dedicate the new Tennessee Public Health Building. This Building will serve as the Upper East Tennessee Regional Office. The regional office in Johnson City will serve eight counties in the area.

The new $6.5 million Student Center is scheduled for completion in December of 1975, but is approximately three months behind schedule. Don Carter, Director of the Center, said that the new building will feature a post office, an arts and crafts shop, four television lounges, a 900-seat theatre, a mini-market, a branch bank, bookstore offices, student publications offices, student government offices, and a Rathskeller, a type of pub, to name a few. (continued)

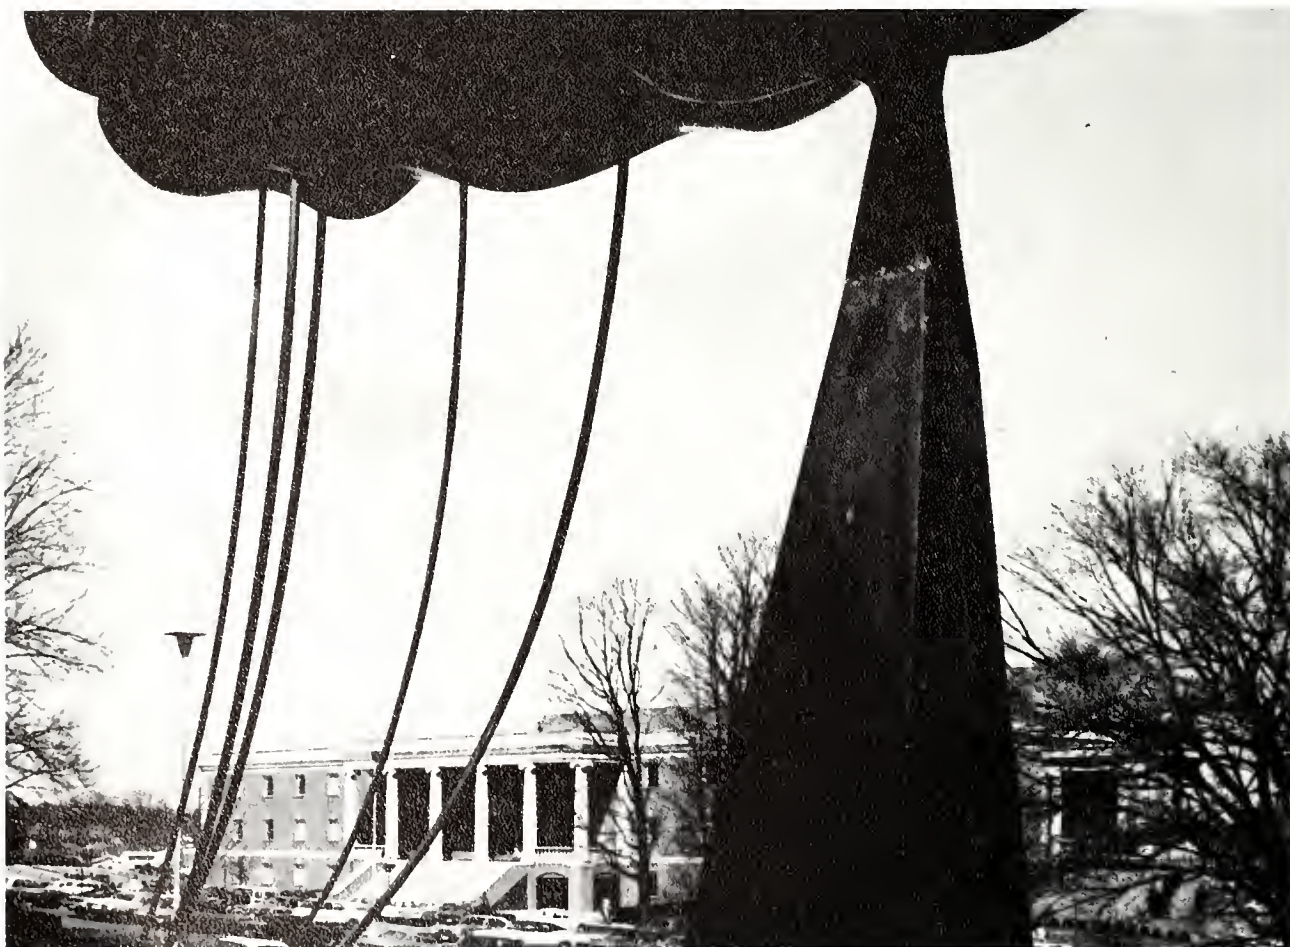

The minidome is due for completion in Spring of 1975. Over half of the structure is completed. One hundred twelve feet tall, the physical education complex will be as tall as a ten story building and will house all indoor athletic functions.

Gilbreath Hall, built in 1910, is currently being renovated. Completion of the building is sited for September, 1975. The newly renovated facility will contain 23 classrooms, a theatre, three seminar rooms, and 50 faculty offices. Gilbreath Hall will accommodate the Mathematics, Speech, Journalism, and Drama Departments as well as University High classrooms.

Continual construction breeds hope for the future.

The East Tennessee State University Medical School Becomes a Reality

For the past ten years, there has been a shortage of doctors in Upper East Tennessee. In 1964, the Appalachian Center for the Healing Arts was formed to increase medical care in the region. One solution to the shortage was readily apparent. A new medical school in the area would help remedy the situation. It was also apparent that the state of Tennessee was not in financial condition to support a new state medical school in its entirety.

Then in 1971, Representative Olin Teague of Texas sponsored a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives calling for five new medical schools to be established in conjunction with the V.A. Hospitals and institutions of higher learning. Johnson City, with its V.A. Hospital at Mountain Home and E.T.S.U., fit the concept ideally. Representative James H. Quillen co-sponsored the Teague Bill.

The bill stated that the Federal Government would provide most of the capital outlay costs and about half of the operational cost for a six-year period.

State Representatives P.L. Robinson and Robert Good and State Senator Marshall Nave began to lay the foundation in the State Legislature. At the same time, opposition to the East Tennessee Medical School was beginning in Memphis. It was argued that the University of Tennessee Medical School was underfunded. Upper East Tennessee Legislators argued that they had no desire to take anything from the Medical Unit in Memphis. They also pledged their support in the General Assembly to provide substantial financing for the Memphis Medical Unit.

In 1971, Governor Winfield Dunn named Dr. William Willard of the University of Kentucky to head a three-man committee to study the possibility of an Upper East Tennessee Medical School. In January, 1972 the Willard Committee report was released. A medical school in Johnson City was low on their list of priorities.

The Teague Bill was combined with a similar bill by Senator Alan Cranston of California to form the Teague-Cranston Bill which called for eight medical schools.

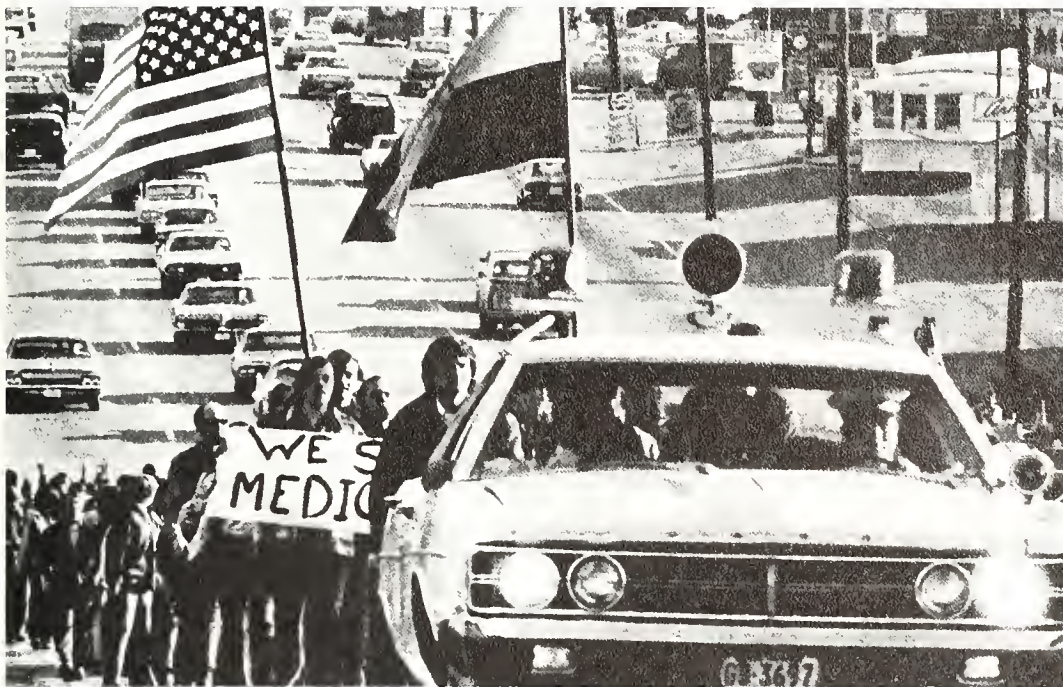

The State Board of Regents told E.T.S.U. it could begin planning for a medical school in December, 1972. But, in February, 1973 the Board of Regents turned down E.T.S.U.'s request for $100,000.

After almost a year of debating over the school, the State House of Representatives overruled Governor Dunn's veto. The vote to override the veto was 51-37. The medical school had become a reality.

Dr. Robert E. Jewett comes to E.T.S.U. from the Emory University School of Medicine where he was Professor of Pharmacology and Program and Medical Director of the Physician Associate Program. Dr. Jewett has been involved in research and teaching, though most of his interest lies in medical school administration.

Citizens for medical advancement in Tennessee solicited funds from the public and then brought a large group of Tennessee legislators to Johnson City in November, 1971, to see the facilities at E.T.S.U. and the Veterans Hospital.

Two pieces of drafted legislation were designed to alleviate medical services shortages in Tennessee. The first, sponsored by the Tri-Cities delegation, would create a "free-standing" medical school of E.T.S.U. The second, Governor Dunn proposed a cooperative medical school between the University of Tennessee and E.T.S.U.

University Center

The University Center was erected in 1958 for the specific purpose of serving the students of E.T.S.U. as an integral part of their educational and recreational life. Mr. Benny Smith is Administrative Assistant and Mrs. Ann Etta Shadoan is the Social Director.

University Bookstore Caters to the Students Needs

Although the E.T.S.U. Bookstore serves primarily as a headquarters for the trade of new and used books, it offers a large variety of student necessities. The bookstore carries general books and magazines, greeting cards, stationery, cosmetics, and sundries. Orders for class rings and Greek jewelry are taken in the bookstore. The novelty section offers stuffed animals and nic-nacs. Besides serving as a general store, the bookstore is a meeting place for many students.

Carroll Reece Museum

The Carroll Reece Museum provides an excellent opportunity for the students of E.T.S.U. and the citizens of Johnson City to share in experiencing cultural exhibits. The museum brings a variety of unique collections of ceramics, paintings, and cultural exhibitions to the campus.

The Beginning and the End ..... Graduation

Graduation is a day full of emotion for many students. It is a time of anticipation, relief, excitement, and fulfillment. Graduation exercises are held following every quarter at East Tennessee State University. A tea is given for all graduating seniors by Dr. and Mrs. D.P. Culp. Alumni honor the graduates with a continental breakfast before the exercises begin.

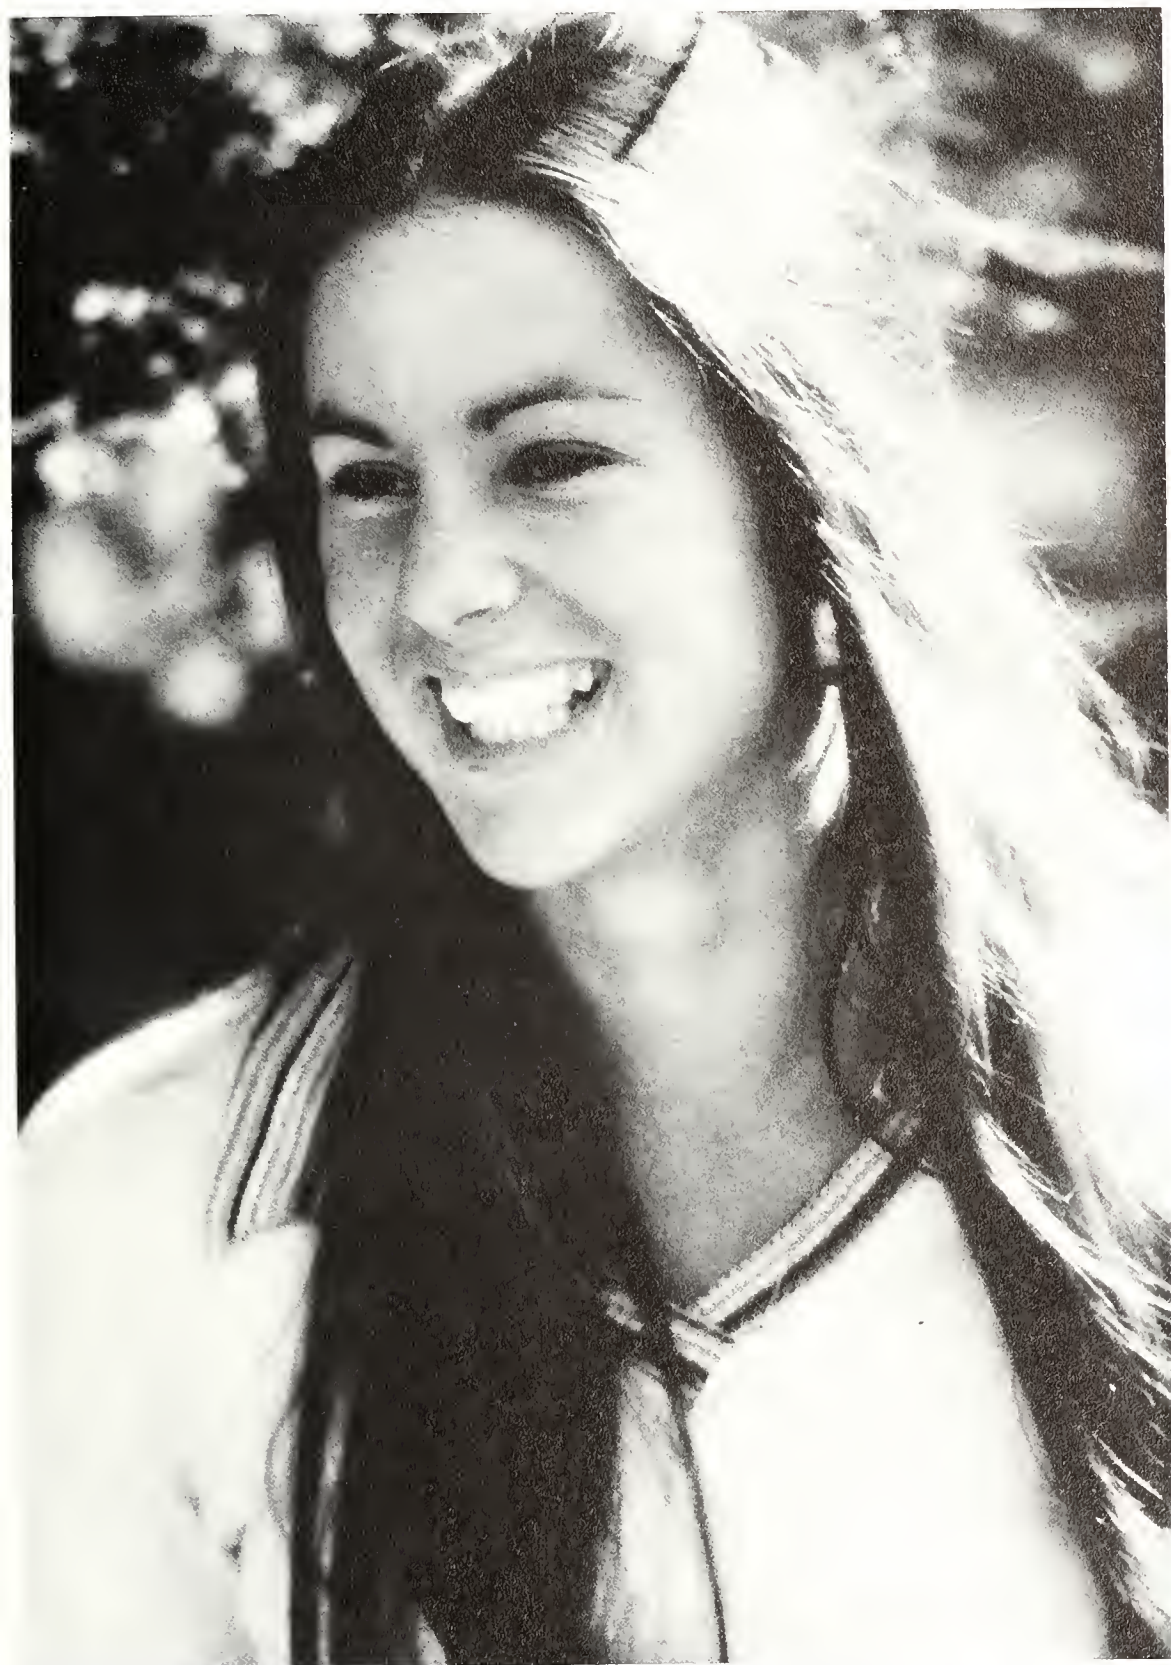

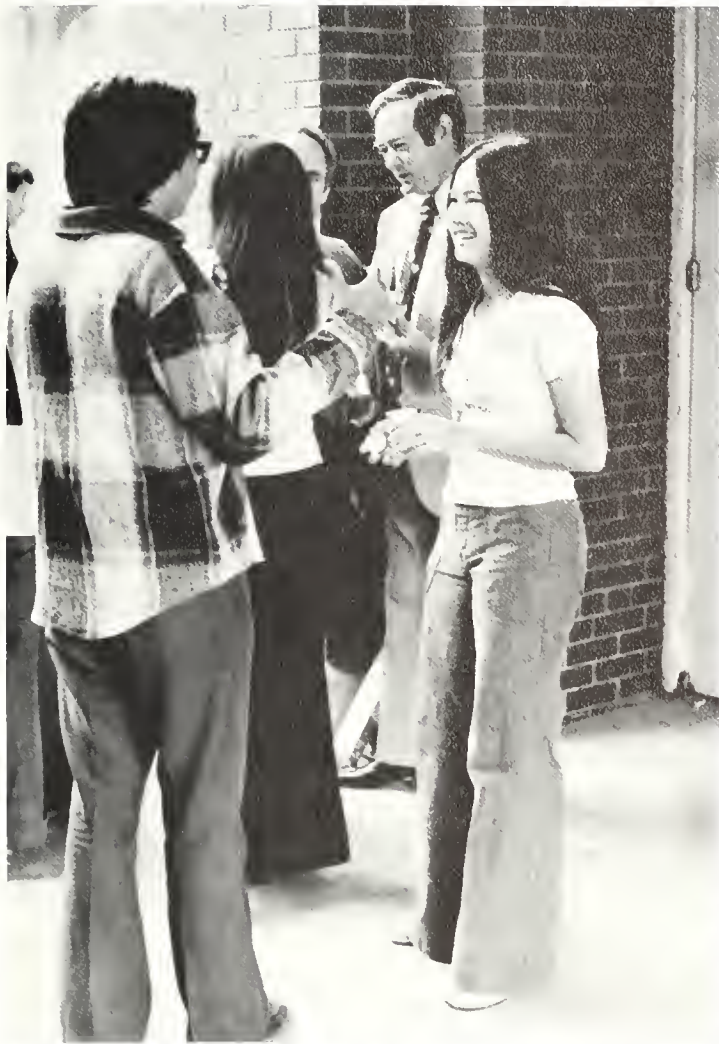

The desire for enthusiasm and involvement guides many E.T.S.U. students to express themselves through music.

ATHLETICS

Madison Brooks

Athletic Director

Madison Brooks, an institution in East Tennessee basketball, has brought the same dedication to his duties as athletic director as he did to the head basketball coaching post he held at East Tennessee State for a quarter of a century.

Brooks took over the duties of athletic director in June of 1973 and has pointed the Buccaneers toward a new era in all phases of athletic competition.

"We are approaching the future with renewed enthusiasm and optimism," he says. "We feel we can be competitive in all varsity sports and with a new facility under way, we feel we can provide the whole area with a solid athletic program."

Janice Shelton

Assistant Athletic Director

Janice Shelton, a member of the East Tennessee State University physical education staff for the past six years, was named assistant athletic director in charge of women's sports in September of this year.

Since September, Miss Shelton's primary duties have been organizing and guiding the development of the women's athletic program.

"We are interested in providing a sports program in which our students are interested, not in having many sports just for the sake of having them," she said. "I am much more interested in having a quality program than one of quantity."

The program Miss Shelton has developed includes basketball, volleyball, tennis, badminton, bowling, track and field, and gymnastics. The Buccaneer women have competed well in basketball, volleyball, and tennis in the past on an intercollegiate level.

Go, Big Blue!

The Bucs finally came home for their first game with a despairing record of 0-4 and an insurmountable drive to win that 'big one' against Western Kentucky—the conference leaders. Western Kentucky rolled into Big Blue Territory with an impressive Number 2 rating in the Division II of Colleges and Universities for the nation.

Position was the key to the game with Western. During the first quarter the Hilltoppers were in Buc territory most of the time with a TD coming at 9:48 into the game. The Buc defense did a fine job of styming the Hilltoppers—while the offense got most of the bad breaks. The first quarter ended with the Bucs fighting for a better position and the Hilltoppers leading 7-0.

The second quarter got off to a bad start with the Hilltoppers returning a Reed Nelson punt 33 yards to the Buc 21 yard line. The defense held the Toppers to a field goal attempt that went wide.

The Big Blue offense was contained during their next series of downs forcing a short punt that was returned to the East Tennessee 34 yard line.

The fired up Buc defense came out to stop the Hilltoppers. The Western field goal was good, making the score 10-0 with the teams going into the locker rooms at halftime.

The close, hard-fought first half was put out of reach for the Buccaneers at 2 minutes into the second half with a 69 yard punt return for a Topper TD. The rest of the quarter saw an impressive Buc defense overcome a strong Topper offense.

The fourth quarter was a show of mighty defenses until the final few minutes. The Buc defense once again forced the Toppers to lose the ball on downs.

The first play of scrimmage was intercepted with a run back for 28 yards and a touchdown making the final score 24-0, Western Kentucky.

E.T.S.U. vs. Furman

After five consecutive losses and two weeks of rest and practice the Buccaneers were ready and eager for a win. Their next encounter was a home game with Furman.

In the first quarter the Paladins used nine minutes for an offensive drive that culminated with a field goal, which was the only score for the quarter.

Charlie Wells brought down a Paladin pass in the second quarter to stop the drive for Furman. The Bucs could not control the ball and were forced to give it up midway in their own territory due to two major infractions. The Paladins went on to score. The first half of the game ended with a 10-0 score for the Paladins.

The second half started with Bob Hardy traveling 53 yards from scrimmage to the Furman 19. On a halfback pass from frosh George Fugate to Ron Hillman, 14 yards were rolled up to give the fired up Bucs a first and goal on the five.

The Big Blue was not to be denied the first score in six quarters, so quarterback Lee Trawick optioned and rambled into the end zone for six. Bobby Neff added the PAT.

The Big Blue showed their might by containing the surprised Paladins for the rest of the game.

The Bucs went on for a field goal to tie the game 10-10. Lee Trawick showed his quarterbacking talent by skillfully controlling the ball for over eight minutes.

The fourth quarter started with a Paladin field goal. This gave Furman a 13-10 lead. After a pass completion to senior Bo Howard and after a Paladin face masking penalty the Bucs were within the Furman 30. The next series of plays set the Bucs up on the Paladins 3 with a first and goal. Lee Trawick pitched to George Fugate for the option right and a TD! With only 1:24 left in the game the Paladins quickly moved deep into Buc territory. However, the Paladins were not to score. This was the first victory of 1974 for the Big Blue! With less than 15 seconds left, a Paladin pass was intercepted by Charlie Wells and run back 96 yards for another TD. The Bucs had won their first game!

Bucs Topple TTU

The Buccaneers played outstanding football against Tennessee Tech. Big Blue's first score of the game came at 3:49 in the first quarter with the offense doing it just right. With the offensive line blocking the Tech linemen to the inside, George Fugate, Bob Hardy, and Lee Trawick combined to control the ball for a Buc touchdown.

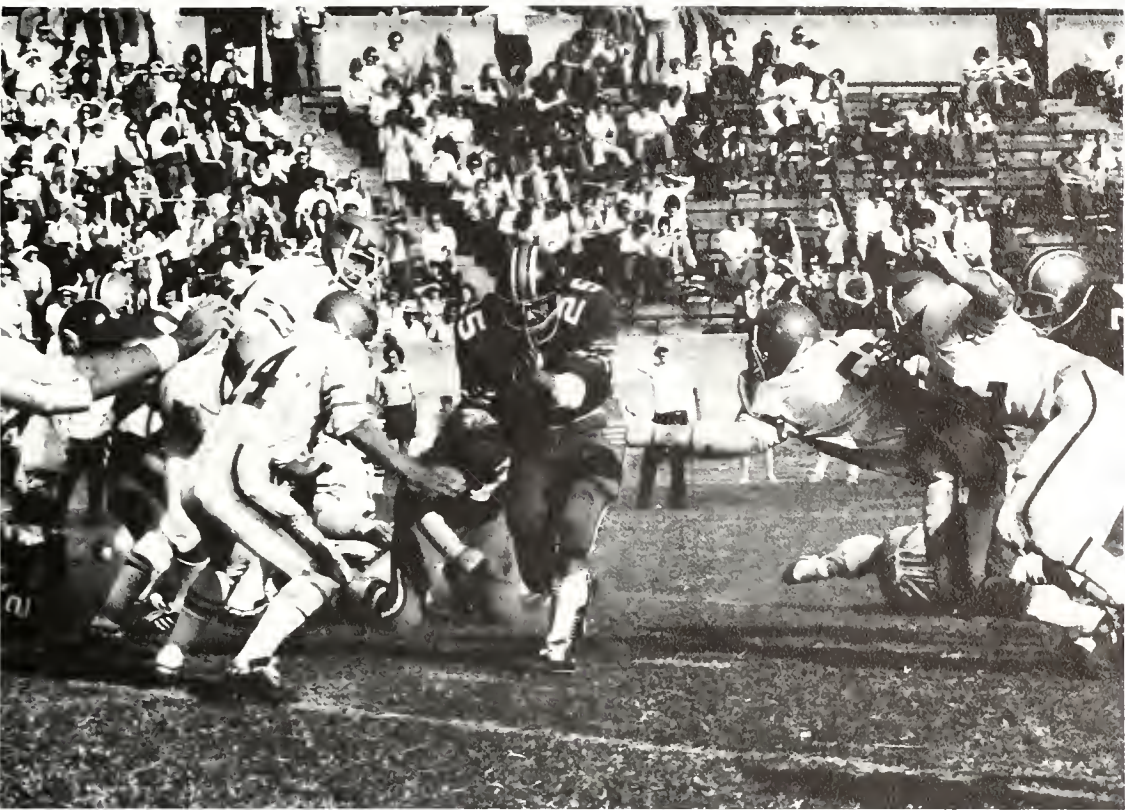

Bobby Neff completed two field goals during the second quarter to give the Bucs a 13-0 lead at the half.

During the third quarter of play the Eagles moved within the Bucs 30 yard line due to a penalty. Ken Gaiter immediately intercepted a Tech pass on the 21 yard line to end the Eagles hope of a score.

For the rest of the game, both defenses battled for the ball and position. The ball was kept within the 25 yard line for the entire fourth quarter.

Buccaneers Win Homecoming Game

The first quarter of the Big Blue homecoming game was marked by a nullified TD, one fumble, plenty of running, and a bad Morehead punt. On the opening kick-off Ken Gaiter raced 89 yards for a TD that was called back because of a clipping penalty. A fumble early in the quarter on the Eagle 3 yard line stopped the Bucs momentarily. Both teams did a lot of short, quick running between punts. However, with a minute and thirty seconds remaining in the quarter, a bad Eagle punt landed on their 41 yardline. The Big Blue flawlessly capitalized on their position to score early in the second quarter with Bobby Neff's PAT. Freshman Eddie Debro aided the Buc cause by intercepting his first of two Eagle passes on their 36 yard line.

The Eagles managed to invade Buc territory for only the second time during the third quarter. Also, during this quarter, Reed Nelson, booted spectacular punts of 69 and 51 yards.

Eddie Debro opened the fourth quarter with another amazing return that was called back because of a clipping penalty. But, with the Buccaneers retaining the ball on the Eagle 38, they soon capitalized on a good thing with George Fugate going off tackle for the TD! Bobby Neff added his seventh consecutive PAT!

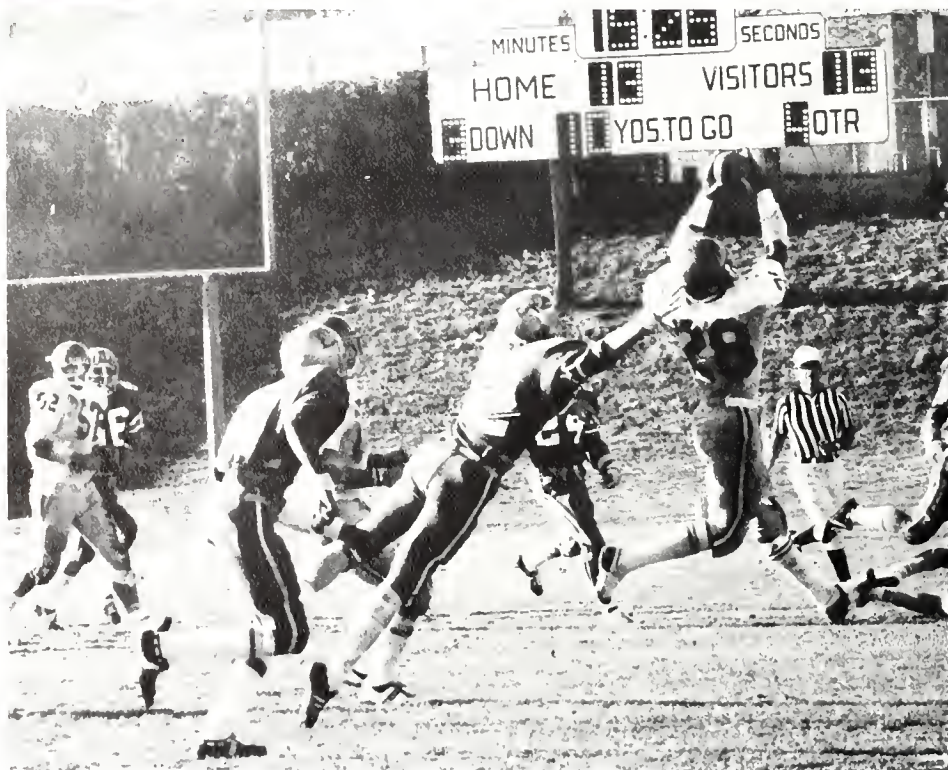

The defense did another outstanding job of holding the opponents scoreless. E.T.S.U. had not posted two consecutive shutouts (Tennessee Tech, 13-0, Morehead State, 13-0) since 1949.

Bucs Tie Final Game

Prior to the Austin Peay game, the Buccaneers traveled to Middle Tennessee State University to play an out-standing game against the Blue Raiders. Nat Cherry and George Fugate had a sparkling game by rushing for a total of 253 yards—"48 yards more than the entire Blue Raider backfield." The strong Buccaneer defense allowed the Blue Raiders only 59 yards of rushing and 12 yards of passing in the second half for a total offense of only 71 yards.

For the final game of the season, the Bucs returned to Memorial Stadium to take on the Austin Peay Governors in what was to be a disappointing game. The first quarter appeared to start out well for the Bucs with Gary Jennings keeping on the option and rambling 51 yards for a TD early in the quarter. The Governors came back early by recovering a fumble midway in Buc territory and converting it into a field goal.

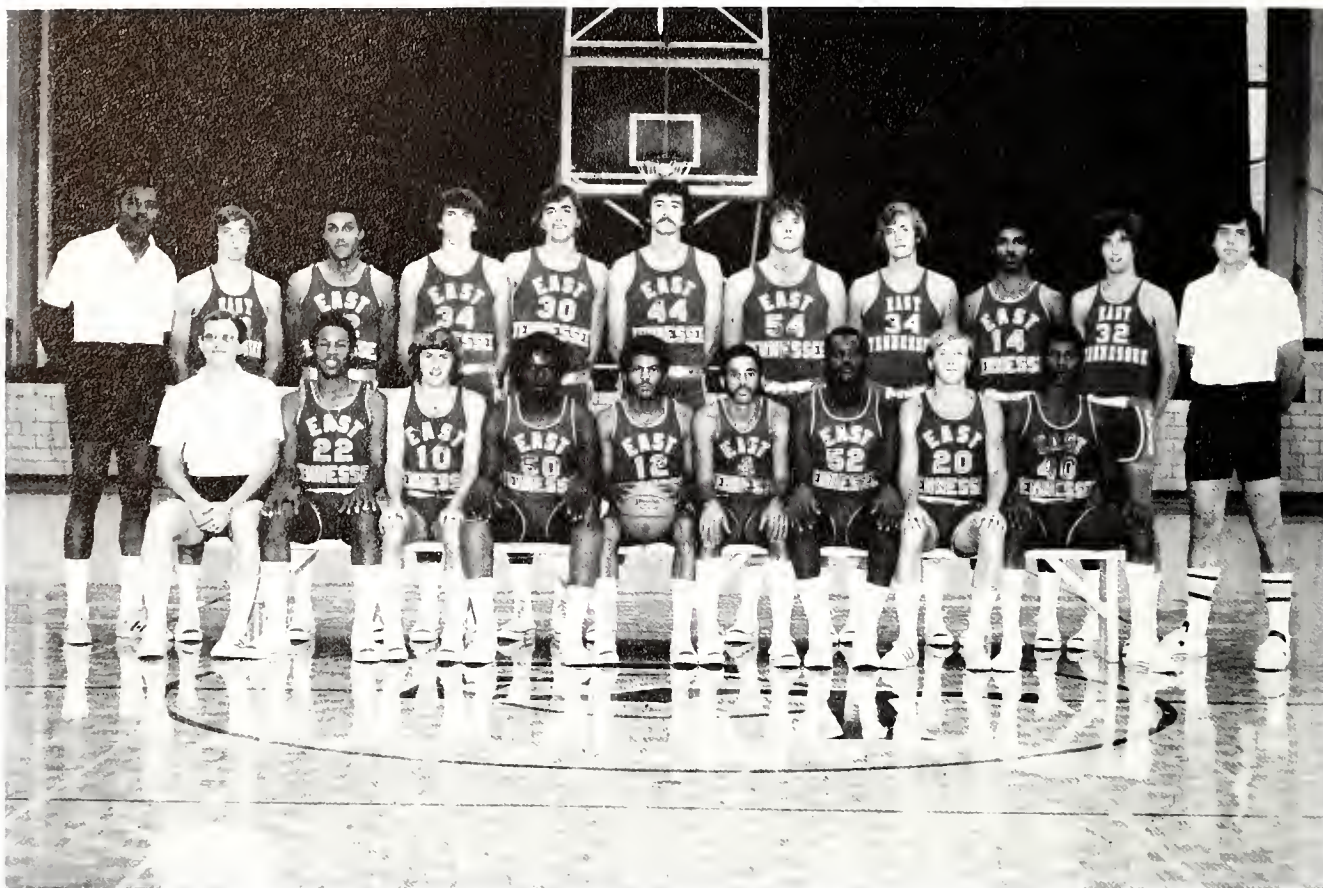

On the first play from scrimmage during the second quarter, Gary Jennings once again dashed into the end zone only to have the play called back because of a procedure penalty. Two plays later, a halfback option pass was intercepted by Austin Peay. This stopped the Buccaneer drive on the Peay 20 yard line. Charlie Wells intercepted a pass and returned the ball to the Peay 11 yard line with the aid of a clipping penalty called against the Governors. The hopes of a TD were soon lost as the Bucs fumbled on the Peay 1 yard line.

The Buccaneers got off to a good start in the third period when freshman John Flannary recovered a Peay fumble caused by Herman Saunders on the Governors 19 yard line. A stiffening Governor defense forced the Bucs to attempt a field goal—which was good for an E.T.S.U. lead of 10-3 over the Governors. Austin Peay sustained a drive that consumed five minutes and resulted in a field goal that made the final score for the quarter 10-6.

The fourth quarter did not start off right for the Bucs. With the Bucs, deep in their own territory, Peay recovered a fumble that they quickly capitalized into a TD. The Bucs regained possession of the ball, when Benny Denton recovered a badly pitched ball on the Peay 33. Bobby Neff converted the Governor turnover into 3 points. On the next series of Governor downs, Benny Denton again recovered a fumble that left the Bucs with first and ten on the Peay 39. The Governor defense was anxious to get their hands on the ball again, and forced the Bucs to punt. The punt was blocked and recovered by Peay on their 29 yard line. An equally stubborn Buc defense quickly forced the Govs to punt with less than two minutes remaining in the tied game. Another Buc attempt at the halfback option pass resulted in an interception on the Governors with 30 seconds left. The game ended in a 13-13 tie. This gave the Bucs an overall season record of 4-6-1 and an OVC record of 3-3-1.

Hard Work, Heatbreak for the '75 Basketball Bucs

At the time the Buccaneer went to press the Buccaneer basketball team is currently 7-12 with a 3-8 OVC score sheet. However, win-loss statistics never tell the entire story unless one hunts for peculiarities and discrepancies. One might notice that five Buccaneer games were decided by one point. Three of these one point decisions were witnessed by Buc crowds at Memorial Gym; two losses—an exasperation for the fans, and one win—a catharsis.

The team is led by seniors Morris Tampa, Elmo Seay, Kenny Reynolds, Bruce Curtis, and Bert Frasure.

Morris Tampa, from St. Petersburg, Florida is a 6'4" forward averaging 12.6 points per game with about 10 rebounds a game. He is the team captain and leads the team with a .616 field goal percentage and has a .631 free throw percentage.

Another Buccaneer crowd pleaser is 6'8" center Elmo Seay. Elmo has played 15 games and has a .488 field goal percentage, a .634 free throw percentage, and averages four rebounds and baskets per game. He is from Thomaston, Georgia.

Forward Kenny Reynolds is an exciting outside shooter that is leading the team with 20.7 points a game. Kenny, from South Bend, Indiana, also has a very high .769 free throw percentage. The 6'4" senior possesses a .464 field goal percentage and averages 6 rebounds a game.

"Little" Bruce Curtis is one of the smallest guards in the Ohio Valley Conference (5'11") but has a 11.3 points per game and .703 free throw percentage. Bruce also has a .386 field goal percentage and is from Hamilton, Ohio.

A person that plays behind Seay, Tampa, and Richardson would not have much of a chance to play. Bert Frasure, from Ashland, Kentucky, is in that predicament. Bert has played in six games and has a good shot although he seldom shoots. Bert, a 6'8" center, averages three points a game.

For the next year the Bucs are scheduled to play the University of Richmond, the University of Florida, a tournament (the Bayou Classis) in Southwestern Louisiana, the University of North Carolina, and the Bulldogs of Georgia Tech plus the regular line up of OVC opponents.

The optimistic outlook can be readily justified by two outstanding and proven collegiate competitors plus a solid nucleus from last year's club. The team enjoyed a good fall campaign.

Cross Country

The Irish Brigade posted another top season this year. This is the sixth straight year in which the Brigade has won all of their dual meets and defeated the harriers of the University of Tennessee at Knoxville to take the title of Tennessee State Champions. For the fourth straight year, the Irish, qualified for the NCAA from Region III and placed 20th in the NCAA with two of three top runner not competing due to sickness.

Ray McBride, Mark Fiucane, and Kevin Breen have highlighted the Buccaneer season usually finishing up one, two, and three for the team. Three other top finishers for the team are: Frank Greally, Mike Fields, and David Ritchie.

Track

Distance running has been a continuing tradition at E.T.S.U. The indoor thinclads have been no exception. For example: This year at the Indiana Relays freshman Mark Finucane bettered the existing, three mile run with a 13:55.4 breaking the record by 2.8 seconds. It was the second time in two weeks that Finucane had bettered an existing meet record. Mark Brown, although he ran unattached during the cross country and indoor track seasons, finished fourth in the two-mile run with a time of 8:54. In the Pittsburg Invitational Brown and Finucane finished one and two in the two-mile event with times of 8:53.2 and 8:54.1.

In outdoor track, Coach Dave Walker has a promising line-up with many veterans and many newcomers. For the field events there are:

High jump—Kenny Poindexter, David Tipton

Pole Vault—Glenn Crafford

Shot Put—Bobby Neff

Discus—Hogan, Perry

Long Jump—Frank Akharume

Triple Jump—Frank Akharume, Kenny Poindexter

Javelin—Perry, Bert Kelly

Women's Sports

Gymnastics has been added to the growing list of women's sports at E.T.S.U. Under the leadership of Coach Chris Ayers, the young team is inexperienced in group competition, but marked with determination. Of the four members of the team, three of them are right at home on the gymnastic equipment. Jill Adkins, a freshman from Kingsport, is a beginner with much potential. Julie Miller, a freshman from Knoxville has been working in gymnastics for the past three years. Laurey Birns, a freshman from Cherry Hill, N.J., and Chrissy Schnechter from Marmaroneck, N.Y., are gymnasts with four to five years of experience behind them. Miss Schechter is the New York State Champion on the uneven parallel bars. Thus far, this determined, young team has participated in two triangular meets, winning two second places. Other meets they will attend will include the First Annual State Meet at the University of the South and the Regional at ASU in March, and the Nationals, in California.

The girls Basketball Team coached by Mrs. Janice Shelton participated in the District Tournament, and the Volleyball Team, led by Mrs. L. Fowler, finished their season with a successful 25-8 record. The '75 volleyball team attained first place in the ASU Tournament and finished second in the State Tournament. E.T.S.U.'s women's badminton team, under the coaching of Mrs. Thomas, is considering going co-ed as soon as arrangements can be made. These kind of relations with men's sports activities will surely promote the growth of other co-ed sports. Mrs. Shelton and Coach Hartsell combined efforts this year to spark E.T.S.U.'s Women's Tennis Team to a very competitive season. Each year the women's Bowling Team is organized in April and this year is no exception. A good turnout is expected for bowling. Coach Walker is now in the process of organizing the women's Track Team and expects a successful season this year. E.T.S.U.'s women are truly giving State an athletic showing we should all be proud of.

Rifle Team

For the past 25 years, the Buccaneer Rifle Team has been competing on the inter-collegiate level with twenty-nine shooters becoming All-Americans over the years. (At the time of publication, the 1975 All-Americans were not yet known).

In 1974, the Rifle Team won national acclaim by being named the national champions on both international and conventional targets by the National Rifle Association. The team of 1973 won the national championship on international targets, and in 1972, the team placed second in the nation.

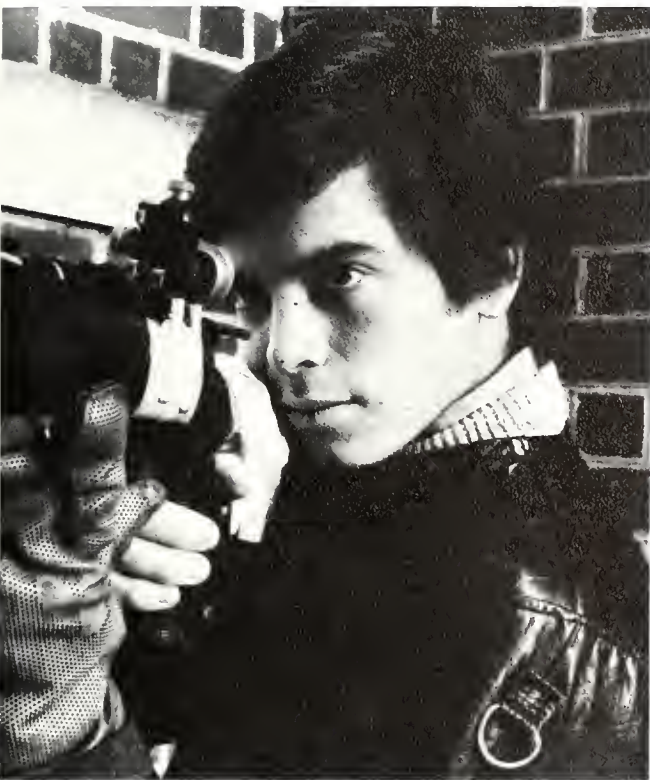

The 1975 team is composed of five members of last year's national champion team and six All-Americans. They are: Lynn Howell, Senior, Alexandria, Virginia; Chris Rennie, Junior, Wilmington, Delaware; Linda Bailey, Sophomore, San Francisco, California; Craig Harrel, Sophomore, Oak Ridge, Tennessee; Reed Thorkildsen, Junior, Alexandria, Virginia; Ron Plumb, Junior, Vienna, Virginia; Pete Seamen, Junior, Wilmington, Delaware. The Alpha Xi's care about their grades, and to butter up their professors, the Fuzzies held their second annual "Apple Polishing" Party. Each sister invited two or three of her professors in for apple pie and coffee.

Celebrating its 20th year, Phi Alpha chapter proudly represents Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority on the E.T.S.U. campus.

Nationally, Alpha Omicron Pi was founded on January 2 1897 at Barnard College of Columbia University in New York. Four women set down the basics to a form of life which has endured seventy-eight years with a minimum number of changes.

Phi Alpha Chapter chose to follow those teachings on April 16, 1955. Since then, we have worked for the college and community in various social and charitable functions.

We follow our national philanthropy by supporting the Arthritis Foundation on both the local and national levels. Other service projects include the March of Dimes and the Heart Fund.

Participating in campus activities is another facet of Phi Alpha. The Greek system is supported by the sisters in such events as Derby Day, Pike's Peak, All-Sing. The chapter won the SPIRIT award in Pike's Peak, and first place in Sigma Nu Snake Day.

Lambda Chi Alpha, "the fraternity of honest friendship" was founded in 1909 at Boston College under the name of the Cosmopolitan Law Club. Since that time, Lambda Chi Alpha has attracted over 125,000 members in over 200 chapters in North America.

The local chapter, Iota Omicron Zeta was established at East Tennessee State University in 1956. The brothers were fortunate enough to be the first fraternity to own their own home.

Lambda Chi's are the sponsors of many campus activities, the most noted being the annual All-Sing. All-Sing is a weekend of excitement when Greeks join together and present their musical productions which are centered around designated themes. The brothers participate in the annual Easter Seal drive. They have raised money for this project by sponsoring marathon dances and mock bank robberies.

The social life of the fraternity centers around three special events with numerous other functions throughout the year. Fall quarter brings homecoming, while the annual Starlite Ball is held during the winter. The year is ended with a Spring Farewell for graduating seniors.

Sigma Nu, one of the newest fraternities on campus, has made outstanding progress since its founding in 1973. The brothers are proud of their chapter and its accomplishments.

Each spring, Sigma Nu sponsors Snake Day, a scavenger hunt between the sororities on campus. The chapter also started a consumer price report which is printed in the East Tennessean and compares local prices on items commonly used by students. The Sigma Nu's also devote their time as volunteers for the Let's Keep Living Council and the Humane Society.

The 1975 Miller Pick-Up Contest was won by the chapter. Their social calendar includes regular parties and periodic rush. Sigma Nu's are proud of their stress on academic excellence. Evidence of this is seen in their first place rating among the fraternities for fall quarter grades.

Stepping into an exciting new year at E.T.S.U., the Band with the Sound, set out to initiate a new director. Mr. Bill Scott came to E.T.S.U. from Elizabethton, Tennessee where he was director of the Elizabethton High School Band. He brought with him much enthusiasm and aspirations for an outstanding year with the Buccaneer Band.

This year the Band continued the tradition of entertaining during halftime at all home football games. Recognition came to those deserving it, when the E.T.S.U. Band was invited to participate in Governor Ray Blanton's Inagural Parade. This trip to Nashville was one of the highlights of the 1975 year for the Big Blue Band.

E.T.S.U. President Dr. D.P. Culp, Strives for Campus Growth and Improvement

"We are now in the greatest period of the history of ETSU. Never before has there been so much expansion in process. Never before have the students been as concerned or as motivated," says Dr. Delos Poe Culp, President of ETSU since 1968.

Dr. Culp was born in Clanton, Alabama, July 26, 1911. Educated at Auburn and Columbia Universities, he has held several positions in education. He has been an eighth grade teacher, a high school principal, an Auburn professor and a University President. Before coming to ETSU he served as President of Alabama College.

He speaks of campus expansion with excitement. "Not only is our university expanding in size" he proclaims, "but each college and department is experiencing new growth and enrichment."

According to Dr. Culp, the proposed medical school represents a major breakthrough for both ETSU and the community. He views it as the biggest undertaking in Tennessee, having more potential in affecting the future of ETSU than any one single factor.

Because of his role as an administrator, Dr. Culp feels a loss of contact with students. "I deeply regret not being able to know students personally. If my schedule allowed it, I would teach courses here."

Dr. Culp has directed his life toward the betterment of education. He fought for safer school buses in Clanton and Butler Counties, Alabama. He was a member of a Special Education Mission and spent ten months studying the Philippine school system for the purpose of suggesting improvements. He battled for a medical school in Johnson City. Under his guidance, ETSU implemented doctoral education. The list of educational improvements of which he has taken part in making realities is seemingly endless and his plans for the future are discussed with an unsurpassed enthusiasm. He's a dynamic person never satisfied with the status quo but always anxiously anticipating the improvements of the future.

A main purpose of the University is to make enormous provisions possible for self-initiated study and institutionally directed curricular and instructional processes for student learning and achievement. For such accomplishment, the University's philosophy empowers academic purposes and policies. With the heavy support of this office, an administrative organization is maintained and cultivated for academic affairs. Working in this plan are the colleges administered by deans. Included in these are the graduate school and continuing education.

In the compound academic administrative details of all colleges, each and every procedural factor is pointed toward the full achievement of university students. This office, working with the President, colleges, and departments, recruits and recommends the employment and administration of academic affairs related to the faculty. It works diligently to encourage professional instructional plans in developing and moving forward singular courses, courses of study, special and particular plans, the general core, major emphases, minor emphases, and much more in the University's comprehensive curriculum.

This comprehensive curriculum engulfs every academic administrative realm (excepting medicine) from undergraduate directed study advancing level-by-level through the doctorate.

Vice-President for Academic Affairs is Dr. Mack P. Davis. He received his B.S. from Carson-Newman and was awarded the M.Ed. and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Tennessee.

"The rare combination of economic factors which has resulted in coincident inflation and economic recession presents a problem for universities as it does for all other units of society. This problem is the most challenging one facing our institution in the months immediately ahead. To continue—and improve upon—our programs of quality education while 'weathering the storm' demands a high degree of purposefulness in the utilization of the institution's resources." These words express the challenge which Mr. Solon Gentry feels as Business Manager of E.T.S.U.

The Office of Admissions and Records is a vital part of ETSU. Here, all academic records are maintained and checked before a student graduates. Headed by Dean James W. Loyd, responsibilities of this center include registration, veterans advisement, GED testing, and pre-enrollment counseling for high schools and community colleges.

It is the function of the pre-enrollment counseling program to advise prospective students of various aspects of ETSU. The office employs two full time recruiters, Lloyd Bell and Steve Wilkinson, who work with high school and community college counselors in the capacity of distributing information about the university and having personal contact with students who may wish to enroll here. Bob Palmer, John Herron and Ted Mowery, who serve as assistants to Dean Loyd, are also involved in the program. A graduate assistant, Miles Aldridge, coaches during the fall and spring quarters and assists during the winter and summer quarters in the recruitment of students in general as well as athletes. O.E. Price serves as a liaison between the Office of Admissions and Records and Data Processing for the purpose of maintaining student records.

Through this office, the university has recently become affiliated with Project Ahead, a program sponsored by the U.S. Army and educational institutions. Project Ahead makes it possible for army personnel to start or continue their education while still in the service.

DR. BURGIN E. DOSSETT, President Emeritus

Student Personnel Directors

DEAN STOUT SEES TREND TOWARD INDIVIDUALISM

"With all the changes we've seen in the younger generation, we still consider ourselves blessed with a fine student population. Most of the time it's a real joy relating to the group. However, there are problems. For example, too many students assume that deans and other administrators are unavailable. I am concerned about the vast number of problems, difficulties, delays and disappointments, many of which could be avoided if students would only inquire in advance at the proper places." These words express a major concern of Dr. Dorman Stout, Dean of Students.

Dean Stout sees a current accent on individualism and independence which inspires students to act as "free agents" with control over their own destinies. In compliance with the trend, the university has adjusted accordingly. "For example," he explains, "summer orientation is now held in two sessions with emphasis placed on the value of the small group approach. The Personal Development course now offered is also directed toward the individual." Four members of Student Personnel, including Dean Stout, teach this course which is primarily for freshmen but open to any student.

A native of Johnson City, Dean Stout did his undergraduate work at ETSU majoring in economics and sociology. After receiving an M.A. from Teachers College, Columbia University, he completed his Ed.D. at Florida State in 1966. In addition to his duties as Dean of Students, Dean Stout serves on many university committees and is sponsor of the Student Government Association. He enjoys music, plays golf, tennis, and basketball, and runs daily.

Dean Stout and his wife, Betty are the parents of two children, age seven and ten.

DR. WILLENE PAXTON, DEAN OF WOMEN

As Dean of Women, Dr. Willene Paxton enjoys the variety of her job. She works with both large groups, such as sororities, and individuals for the purpose of counseling. This year she taught a class, along with Dean Stout and Dr. Perry Counts, aimed primarily at familiarizing freshmen with E.T.S.U., and offering career guidance and information, and encouraging personal development.

Dr. Paxton directed the "Career Days" program held here on February 18th and 19th. "Career development at E.T.S.U.," she explains, "came from talking with students when they dropped out of school. A committee was set up to compile information concerning what is offered on campus and how students could look at themselves as individuals and find the area of future employment which suited them most."

Dr. Paxton has devoted her life to the counseling and guidance of students. Having graduated from Birmingham Southern with a B.S. in psychology and sociology, she took her M.S. at Michigan State in counseling and guidance. She received her Ed.D. from Indiana University with a major in counseling and minors in personnel administration and psychology.

PHILLIP THOMAS, DEAN OF MEN

"Silence is not always golden," philosophizes Dr. Phillip Thomas, "sometimes it's just plain yellow." As Dean of Men, he is concerned that students often do not become active in the extra-curricular activities, such as student government, which offer him (the student) a chance to voice his opinions. "I don't feel most students are apathetic," he explains, "I think many of them are too busy with other activities. For instance, spiraling inflation has forced many students to work, leaving little time for getting involved in campus life."

Dr. Dorman Stout, Dean of Students

Originally from North Carolina, Dean Thomas completed his B.S. at ETSU in 1949. Having received his M.A. from Vanderbilt and Peabody, he earned his Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is married to Jeanne Bailey Thomas, who is secretary to the head librarian at ETSU. In addition to his duties as Dean of Men, Dr. Thomas also serves on the Administrative Council, the Academic Status Committee, and the University Judicial Board.

CALVIN F. MERCER, DIRECTOR OF PLACEMENT SERVICE

"It's a job to find a job," says Calvin F. Mercer, Director of Placement Service. "Economic conditions have plagued this office."

The responsibility of the Office of Placement Service lies in notifying students and graduates of job openings which exist in business, industry, school systems, government and social agencies. Dr. Mercer feels that although job openings are scarce, more students and graduates could find employment if they broadened their outlooks enough to consider employment in a field different from their own. He estimates that one half of each year's graduates register with the Office of Placement Service.

Dr. Mercer, a native of Buffalo, New York, has an acre farm about one mile from ETSU. An avid outdoorsman, he also raises Angus cattle on his New York farm.

JOAN C. DRESSSEL, DIRECTOR OF HOUSING

Residence Hall living is an important part of any student's college experience. Learning to adjust to group living where each day brings the student in contact with students from varying backgrounds, with different personalities, and from other geographical locations can broaden his horizon.

Living on campus places the student in the center of things geographically, educationally, and socially. You are "there" when proposals are made to change rules and regulations, when special visitors come to campus, when special programs are planned for the entire student body.

Miss Joan Dressel arrived on the E.T.S.U. campus August 1, 1966 coming from Butler University. Her background includes seven years of newspaper work, publicity and public relations assignments, followed by graduate work at Indiana University in Student Personnel.

Public Relations Improves Communication Between University and Community

Right—MR. RAY STAHL, Director of Public Relations

East Tennessee State University exists as a service institution in the community. It provides a variety of programs and services to many publics within the total community.

The Public Relations Department has the responsibility of interpreting the nature and quality of these services and programs as well as enlisting public understanding and support for them.

Public Relations is everyone's concern. The Public Relations Department's role is that of coordinator in two-way communication between the university and its publics.

The following areas of public service are included within this Department: public information, alumni affairs, the WETS-FM station, the E.T.S.U. Foundation, graphic arts and photographic services.

E.T.S.U. Foundation Offers Funding Assistance

Right—MR. DENNE CADE, Director of the E.T.S.U. Foundation

Established in 1970, the E.T.S.U. Foundation serves as a development program to generate private support for the university from the community, alumni and other interested persons.

The Foundation has a separate charter with a Board of Trustees representing the campus and community.

Instrumental in establishing the Pirate Club and the University Club, the Foundation has also helped to establish scholarships funded by businesses, industries, and individuals.

In addition, it has supplied financial assistance to the Mockingbird, athletics, and research on the establishment of the proposed medical school.

Directed by Mr. Denne Cade, the E.T.S.U. Foundation is a vital factor in the progressing aspects of the university.

John Cathey is Sports Information Director

Distributing news of athletics to the news media is the job of Mr. John Cathey, Sports Information Director. In addition, he is responsible for preparing and editing sports brochures, providing photographs of all sports to the news media, and presiding over the press boxes at athletic events.

Mr. Cathey came to E.T.S.U. in 1969, having had experience in such newspaper sports departments as the Greensboro Record and the Greeneville News.

Alumni Active in Fund-Raising

The Office of Alumni Affairs plays an important role in raising money for the university. Thirty-four active alumni chapters in six states each have different objectives in fund-raising and provide considerable assistance in the establishment of scholarships. The alumni hold their annual meeting in May at which time awards are presented to outstanding alumna and alumni.

Directed by Mr. Basil Maltsberger, the Office of Alumni Affairs sponsors an annual alumni tour. This summer the group will take a trip to Hawaii. This office publishes the Alumni Quarterly and aids in the recruitment of students. The Alumni Association also sponsors a continental breakfast for each graduating class on the morning of graduation.

Mr. Don Carter, University Center Director, enjoys working with students whether it be in planning programs or designing a new building for them. He hopes to have as many student needs met as possible in the new student center. The center is scheduled for completion in 1976. It features five food service areas, including a rathskellar, an ice cream parlor, a bookstore, a billiards and table games area, offices for student organizations and publications, an arts and crafts area, a mini-market, and hopefully, a bank. Mr. Carter believes that this building will be the best student center in the country, and he looks forward to serving the students in this new facility.

In addition to being Director of the University Center, Mr. Carter serves as a liaison with the food service on campus. He is also advisor for the BUCCANEER.

MR. HAL SMITH, Head Librarian

... The classroom faculty are the most vital learning resource of a university. The library is the next most important learning resource. Here is where you find the records of human experience—the fact and fiction which the library makes available in the media of print and audio and visual.

... Librarians share their knowledge of where-to-find-what with whoever asks the next question. Maybe you want to know about current career opportunities or the 1790 Census or Greek vases . . . Head Librarian is Mr. Hal Smith.

Right—DR. JERRY RUST, Director of Research and Information Systems

As Director of Research and Information Systems, Dr. Jerry Rust, is responsible for both the administrative and academic activities of the computer center. His position also includes development of a management information system on campus and co-ordinating research activities including institutional research and state and federal research projects.

Dr. Rust serves as the Affirmative Action Officer on campus, an office designed by Dr. Culp to review and investigate cases of discrimination involving sex, race, creed, or national origin.

Originally from Madisonville, Kentucky, Dr. Rust and his wife, Judith, have four children. In addition to his other responsibilities, Dr. Rust is also a professor of Accounting and teaches an evening course at E.T.S.U.

Approximately 2100 E.T.S.U. students have received around $2,295,300 through the Financial Aids Office this year.

Under the direction of Dr. Perry Counts, this office offers financial aid to students in form of loans, grants, and scholarships. In recent years many changes have occurred in the field of financial aid. More students from moderate and low income families are seeking higher education. Colleges and universities, therefore, have developed more uniform and exact methods of determining who needs assistance and how much. The Office of Financial Aids defines financial need as the difference between what a student's family can contribute toward his education and the total cost of attending college.

College of Arts And Sciences

Under the direction of Dr. George N. Dove, the College of Arts and Sciences offers a broad spectrum of majors, professional and pre-professional fields. Among these are three interdisciplinary majors which allow the student a background of knowledge in several disciplines.

A person visiting almost anywhere in the service area of the University can find Arts and Sciences students gaining first-hand experience in the field: journalism students working in newspaper offices, political science students in state and local governments, criminal justice students on police forces, speech students in radio and television stations, all as part of their education for professional careers.

Recognizing that some students do not want to become intensely specialized during their college years, Arts and Sciences offers two programs (American Studies and Humanities) that are designed for the person who wants a broadly based education or who plans to enter one of the humane professions.

An impressive number of Arts and Sciences students have won regional and national reputations during their college years by the research papers they have presented at scholarly meetings, by exhibits in art shows, by performances in recitals and concerts, and by their appearances on the stage.

Department of Art

The staff of the Art Department is diverse in background and training and outstanding in creative accomplishments. The faculty is a group of twelve artists and scholars who believe that involvement in their own creative work or research is a vital part of their roles as teachers.

During the first year, the student majoring in Art is involved in design, drawing, and art history. By the end of the second year the art student has had enough experience in different art fields to make a decision as to the area of concentration he wishes to pursue.

Headed by Dr. Radford Thomas, the Department of Art offers areas of concentration in Painting and Drawing, Sculpture, Printmaking, Design, Photography, Art History, Art Education, Graphic Design, Ceramics, Weaving, Metal Crafts, and Jewelry Making.

Upper Right—Mr. Radford Thomas, Chairman of the Art Department.

Department of Biology

Biology is the study of living things. It is concerned with plants, animals and man and their environments. It is both an accumulated body of knowledge and a continued search for greater understanding of the phenomena of life.

The biology department of E.T.S.U. offers 69 formal courses, most of which include lecture and laboratory experience. In addition, there are less formal research or problem courses of study. The student is given considerable freedom in choosing his own curriculum.

At E.T.S.U. biology department has 16 full-time teachers making up the faculty. All have substantial study beyond the master's degree.

The modern classrooms, labs, museums, and faculty offices occupy five floors of the new Science Building, completed in August of 1971. Dr. Thomas Copeland is chairman of the biology department.

Department of Chemistry

The ESTU Chemistry Department, which currently has a full time faculty of nine, is on the approved list of the American Chemical Society. With an average of over 650 students per quarter, it provides a teaching service for many major fields, from home economics to premed, from nursing to industrial education and many more.

Most of the chemistry faculty engage in chemical research, on their own, as well as in teaching undergraduate and graduate students. The department is especially proud of the American Chemical Society Student Affiliate Chapter. This group, consisting largely of chemistry majors, was judged "outstanding" by the ACS on the basis of its many excellent programs for the 1973-74 academic year.

Department of English

For too long the English major has looked at one career—teaching. This is a necessary and satisfying vocation, but the teaching field is not the only choice open to English majors. The student who has skill in writing and a knowledge of literature has a good background for entrance into the vocational areas of business, medicine, law, and government service. Department Chairman is Dr. John Tallent.

Department of Languages

In 1974 the Language Department had its second summer in Spain. Twentyone students participated in the program which lasted 62 days. The first 28 days were spent in Arevalo, where students lived with host families and thus were able to penetrate the "outer shell" and really get to know the community and the culture. The last 34 days were in Madrid and featured an art course taught at the Prado Museum.

Plans are being made to offer programs to France and Mexico for the summer of 1975. Both programs will be interdepartmental, offering courses in cooking, art, history, and political science, as well as the traditional languages courses.

During the current academic year the department has acquired two young members: Dr. Roland A. Wolff, Ph. D in German from the University of Wisconsin at Madison, 1973; and Dr. M. Laurentino Suarez, Ph.D in Romance Languages from the University of Georgia, 1974. Dr. Eduardo Zayas-Bazan is chairman of the Department of Languages.

Upper Right—John B. Tallent is Chairman of the English Department.
Lower Right—Chairman of the Languages Department is Eduardo Zayas-Bazan.

Department of Geography

Headed by Dr. Robert Peplis, the Department of Geography at ETSU offers a well balanced program of systematic and topical courses in geography. A student may choose among several emphasis programs within the department, each of which is designed to qualify the student for advanced training in that part of the discipline he finds most challenging. Those programs include: 1) General Geography; 2) Geography for Teachers; 3) International Studies; 4) Cartography Air Photography, and Remote Sensing; 5) Physical Geography; 6) Urban and Regional Planning; and 7) a Pre-graduate Program in Geography.

The geography Department was a participant at the meetings of the Pioneer America Society, Inc. held in Abington, Virginia. PASI is a membership, non-profit organization that was organized to promote preservation of our heritage before remaining evidences of pioneer America completely disappears.

Department of Geology

The Geology Department is in the process of adding four new courses to its minicourse series.

Minicourses were first tried by this department with a course in gemstones and another in the Geology of East Tennessee. Both courses were successful and demonstrated student interest in the minicourse idea.

Minicourses attempt to provide students with the opportunity to explore topics of interest outside the students immediate area of concentration. One hour of credit given for one hour per week of classwork. Topics are limited to a narrow area of study but one that would be of general interest. It is anticipated that students will take minicourses to satisfy curiosity about a particular subject, gain a useful skill, or become knowledgeable in a special area of interest for purposes of personal satisfaction and future enjoyment.

Minicourses have no prerequisite other than the student's interest. Of the four new minicourses now being proposed, two will be offered experimentally this Winter Quarter. They are: The Geology of the National Parks and X-Ray Diffraction. The Geology Department is headed by Robert Darling.

Department of History

Headed by Dr. Frank Williams, the Department of History consists of seventeen hard-working professors. From the beginning of East Tennessee Normal to the present, the department recruited faculty members from varied and different backgrounds and universities, as opposed to regional staffing, in an effort to offer richer and broader perspectives of history to the students. The history professors have received advanced education and degrees from George Peabody, Georgia, Harvard, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi State, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas Christian, and Vanderbilt.

During the past year history professors have been busy keeping the department one of the best in the university. All are actively engaged in research. Three have new courses approved in the History of the Middle East, the History of Southern Appalachia, and American Urban History. Professor Robert G. Crawford received recognition from the faculty and administration this year as one of the four Distinguished Professors. Professor Emeritus W. Flinn Rogers received the first Distinguished Professor Award given by the university in 1966.

Upper Right—Chairman of the Geology Department is Robert Darling.
Lower Right—Department Chairman for History is Frank Williams.

Department of Journalism

Headed by Dr. Max L. Marshall, the Journalism department has broadened and expanded its program. Beginning next year, journalism majors may choose from four sequences of "tracks" in order to pursue the course of study best suited to the individual. A student will be able to major in journalism with emphasis on either (1) news-editorial, (2) magazines, (3) radio-television journalism, or (4) public relations.

Six journalism scholarships are awarded annually along with the Pitman Prize for Excellence in Journalism for overall journalistic achievement and the Chanticleer Award for outstanding editorial writing.

Department of Mathematics

The mathematics department has two options now available for its majors. THE MATHEMATICS OPTION is, designed to prepare students for careers in teaching, industry, and research in the fields of mathematics, statistics, and operations research. THE COMPUTER SCIENCE OPTION is designed for those seeking a career as an applications programmer or systems analyst.

The department also offers a minor in either mathematics or computer science as well as numerous service and continuing education courses with approximately 2100 students enrolled in classes in the fall quarter of 1974.

Department of Music

Our music department is a growing one. The many talents of the excellent faculty have combined well to expand and improve the department's offerings.

The music department grants several types of degrees in an effort to suit the needs and desires of each student. It encompasses vocal and instrumental instruction, music education, theory and music history. Participation in the department's band or chorus is open to any student and many take advantage of the chance to enjoy music.

Lower Right—James Stafford is Chairman of the Music Department.

Department of Physics

Housed in the Science Building, undergraduate laboratories are well equipped with such research instruments as a modified Strand Labs EPR apparatus, a high vacuum evaporation apparatus, and many sophisticated electronic measuring devices. The faculty consists of five members, all of whom hold the Ph.D. degree in physics.

Despite its small size the Department is strong academically. Classes, especially in advanced courses, are relatively small, making possible close personal contact between faculty and students.

Headed by Dr. L.F. Collins, the Physics Department offers courses leading to both the Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees. According to Dr. Collins, most of ETSU'S physics majors either go on to graduate school after receiving their B.S., enter the military field, or go into lab work or research. According to Dr. Collins, the Physics Department is continuously progressing in the new teaching techniques incorporated into the physics program. "The world is becoming more and more machine-oriented," he explains, "We try to prepare students for this."

Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science offers a variety of courses to its 35-40 graduate students and 700 majors and minors. The courses are grouped into seven areas of concentration: American Government, Public Administration, Politics, International Relations, Comparative Government, Political Theory, and Jurisprudence, Judicial Politics and Behavior.

The Department sponsors several internship programs designed to provide students with practical government experience to supplement the academic training received in courses conducted by the department. The programs offer varied opportunities for qualified graduate and undergraduate students to combine the study of politics with active participation in the governmental process. Each program is intended to serve three objectives: to make available to public officials the services of qualified students for the performance of official tasks; to provide students with a unique opportunity to do original research based on first-hand experience in government; and to enable students to develop practical skills and knowledge which will lead to their becoming more effective citizens and public servants. The three internships offered by the department are the ETSU Legislative Internship Program, the City Management Internship Program, and the undergraduate City Management Internship. The department also participates in statewide sponsorship of the Tennessee Legislative Internship Program conducted by the Tennessee General Assembly.

Chairman of the Department is Dr. Shirley Chapman.

Department of Social Services

The Department of Social Services offers professional level education and services. Its curricula includes Bachelor of Social Welfare degree programs in Social Work and Corrections Services. An associate degree program in Law Enforcement and a bachelor level degree program in Criminal Justice are also available. The Department also offers family life and marriage education courses. In addition, the Department offers professional marriage and family counseling for members of the student body. The Youth Evaluation Center, within the Department, is a community service program to assist juvenile courts in the Upper East Tennessee Area.

Headed by Dr. Louis E. Nelson, the faculty of the Department of Social Services is composed of professional people who have areas of specialization in the courses offered.

Upper Right—Social Services Chairman is Louis Nelson.

Department of Sociology

Sociology is the study of mankind. It is basically an infant science, but is quite a varied subject. There are almost 50 areas of specialization within sociology. For an undergraduate, our department stresses exposure to all areas. To this end a great variety of course offerings covering a diversity of subjects are available. The aim is that each student gain an understanding of mankind and human relations.

Our sociology department has an outstanding Master's program. Although only six years old, the program is well on its way to becoming the top such program for a university of our size.

Department of Speech

The speech department, housed temporarily in the Sherrod Library, is enthusiastically planning its return to Gilbreath Hall. The massive renovation, which is underway in Gilbreath, will provide modern facilities for the many areas of interest in the Department of Speech.

The department is currently offering tracks of study which prepare students in a variety of fields. Sequences available to students are broadcasting, broadcasting news, leadership communication, interpretation, theatre, and speech education.

WETS-AM is located in Cooper Annex and broadcasts a full schedule to all the dormitories at E.T.S.U. Operated as a commercial station, WETS-AM provides students with training which prepares them for a variety of broadcast-associated positions. Forensics offer the student an opportunity to be active in debate and competitive individual events. During a typical season, these students travel to local and distant points such as Florida, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, and Indiana. The E.T.S.U. student and faculty are presented a wide variety in theatre during the academic year. These activities include readers theatre, dinner theatre, major proscenium productions, and plays in the beautiful amphitheatre.

The College Of Business Administration And Economics

The College of Business Administration and Economics provides the student an opportunity to acquire a broad knowledge of internal problems of business organization and control as well as an understanding of how business may be affected by the complex forces in the economic framework within which it functions. For this reason, emphasis in the program of instruction is placed on the development of a well-rounded knowledge of business fundamentals and an understanding of the structure and processes of the American economy.

The College of Business Administration and Economics in cooperation with the School of Continuing Education offer non-credit courses for businesses and industries throughout the area. The College's Bureau of Business and Economic Research, in conjunction with the teaching faculty, sponsors and carries out various research projects for the benefit of the business community.

The many and varied activities of the college are under the direction of Dean Travis Kirkland. During his administrative tenure, Dean Kirkland has guided the Development of his college through the stages of department and school to its present status as a full-fledged College of the University.

The College of Business Administration and Economics consists of four departments: The Department of Accounting, the Department of Business Administration, the Department of Business Education and the Department of Economics, plus the Bureau of Business and Economic Research with a total of thirty-six (36) full-time faculty members and twelve (12) part-time members.

The College of Business Administration and Economics offers through the School of Graduate Studies the Master of Business Administration degree and the Master of Arts degree in economics.

The building that houses the College will be completely renovated with modern air-conditioned facilities including new classrooms, new student laboratories and new faculty offices. This modernization program is scheduled to be completed during the 1975-76 academic year.

Department of Accounting

The Accounting department now offers a course in taxes for non-accounting majors. The course requires no prerequisites and covers property taxes, sales taxes, state income taxes, social security taxes, and a generalized study of the Federal Income tax laws as they pertain to individuals.

Chairman of the Department, Dr. Karl Sharp, leads his department in a belief in work ethics. Someone has said that accounting is learned through the point of a pencil, so accounting students get plenty of practice. Working problems involves the student in business reporting and gives an insight into the business operations which others never get. An Accounting Lab is offered throughout the day where students may secure help with their homework. Qualified instructors composed of graduate assistants and advanced accounting majors are on duty to help students.

The Department of Business Administration

The major purposes of the Department of Business Administration are to provide a general education as well as a degree of specialization for those students who wish to enter business or government service. Specialized training is offered in the areas of business management, finance, industrial management, insurance, marketing, real estate, transportation, and labor and industrial relations.

The Department of Business Administration has acquired a reputation for producing successful and well-paid graduates who are in great demand throughout the nation's industry. It has obtained this status by providing its students with well-trained teachers and a demanding curriculum.

Upper Left—Acting Chairman of the Department of Business Administration is Travis Kirkland. Below—Altonso Lucero is Chairman of the Business Education Department.

Department of Business Education

Employment in office occupations is expected to increase rapidly through the 1970's to meet the needs of an expanding economy and increasing flow of information. To help meet employment needs, the Department of Business Education and Office Administration will initiate two new secretarial programs. Dr. Alfonso Lucero is chairman of the department.

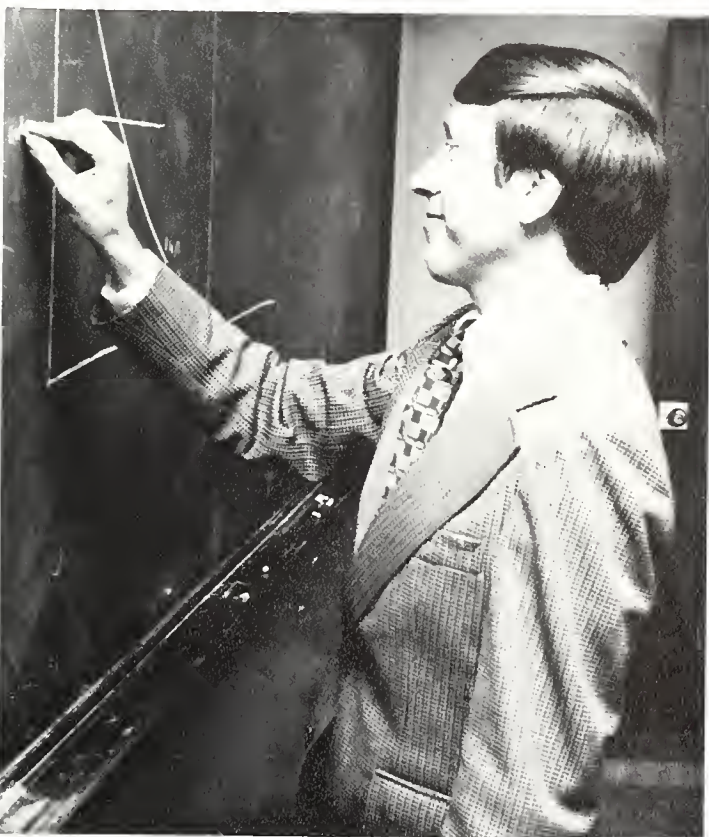

A Two-Year Legal Secretaries Program and a Two-Year Medical Secretaries Program will provide new career opportunities for interested students. Both programs will be fully implemented in the Fall Quarter of 1975. The existing One-Year and Two-Year Executive Secretaries Program also will be available.

A new course in Methods and Materials of Distributive Education will be added to complete a concentration of this course will allow students to meet certification requirements in distributive education and to earn a B.S. degree.

Three new courses in Vocational Office Education will also be offered by this department. Methods and Materials in Vocational Office Education, and Coordination Techniques in Cooperative Education will not only help business education teachers meet certification requirements in Vocational Office Education but will also count toward an M.A. degree in business.

The Department cooperates with the Tri-Cities Chapter of the National Secretaries Association in its annual institute for secretaries. Approximately 300 secretaries from upper East Tennessee attend this one-day institute every year. The Department also coordinates five short courses which are designed to assist individuals to prepare for the Certified Professional Secretaries Examination.

A one-day conference for business teachers is held each spring. This conference emphasizes latest developments in the field.

Department of Economics

The 1974-75 academic year was particularly busy for the Department of Economics, with several new projects underway. Teaching continued to be the primary objective of the department, and several new courses were offered for the first time, including Environmental Economics, Urban and Regional Economics, and Mathematical Economics. Dr. Gordon Ludolf is chairman of the department.

Research has been focused on the regional economy, in cooperation with the First Tennessee-Virginia Development District and the Department of Economics at Milligan College. When completed, the research will include a regional economic base study, a relative share analysis, and an input-output study.

Right—Gordon Ludolf is Chairman of the Economics Department.

College Of Education

The College of Education has primary responsibility for planning and implementing those programs of teacher education for which East Tennessee State University has been approved by the Tennessee State Board of Education. Such programs lead to the B.S., M.A., Ed.A. and ED.D. degrees. Most of the departments of the College of Education also offer non-teacher education programs leading to professional and vocational preparation appropriate to student needs. Dean of the College of Education is Dr. L. Scott Honaker.

In the areas of teacher education two significant developments are taking place: an increased emphasis on field experiences in the public schools and the modification of the curriculum to reflect the development of specific competencies needed by teachers. Both of these developments are designed to bring theory and knowledge into a more meaningful relationship with the tasks of teachers and other school service personnel.

Department of Education

Involvement was the theme of the Department of Education during 1974-75. Education students are involved from the time they enrolled in their first course (which includes the requirement that they serve as teacher aides in local schools for six hours each week) to advanced graduate seminars (where doctoral candidates and faculty grapple with the critical issues of education.) Chairman of the Department is Charles Burkett.

Frequent guests, such as architects, lawyers, and physicians, provide a meaningful infusion of ideas. The dialogue which ensuing when teachers and administrators returned to the campus to work on advanced degrees provides another valuable dimension of professional growth.

Department of General Science and Science Education

A primary function of the Department of General Science and Science Education is to teach introductory science courses for general education. While some courses which are designed for teachers and prospective teachers are offered, most of the Department's work involves the general education program for students who do not wish to major in any field of science. The introductory general science courses have been revised during the past year to reflect recent developments; these courses are especially suitable for students who do not have a strong background in science and mathematics.

Undergraduate students who plan a junior high teaching career are advised by faculty members from the Department of General Science and Science Education. The same is true of graduate students who pursue a Master's degree in Science Education. These interdisciplinary degrees are coordinated by the department, although the programs may involve course work in several other departments. The graduate program has expanded considerably in recent years. An M.A. in Science Education allows for the breadth of study so necessary for effective junior high science teaching.

A recent course addition should prove especially valuable for both elementary and junior high teachers. Approval has been obtained to offer General Science 4107, Nature Study for Teachers, during the spring quarter. This course should fill a real need for many teacher education students who wish to utilize the out-of-doors in their teaching. It will be a field course with student involvement in many activities suitable for application in the classroom.

For the past three summers the Department has conducted short-term courses in elementary science education, some being sponsored by the National Science Foundation and involving the implementation of new science curricula into area public schools.

Upper Right—William Pattford is Chairman of the General Science Department

Department of Home Economics

Home Economics, one of the original departments when East Tennessee State University was first established, has progressed with the times. During the first years, its purpose was to train teachers for a relatively newly recognized discipline. The facilities have expanded from two basement rooms in Gilbreath Hall to the present multi-purpose laboratories in Hutchinson Hall and a home management house. Currently, four programs offer bachelor degree students a varied and general background for professional employment.

The education program approved for vocational certification in 1972 is currently undergoing modifications which will offer students an opportunity to incorporate training required to meet occupational endorsements. Thus, the graduate is qualified to prepare pupils in middle and secondary vocational schools for gainful employment.

Students choosing the general non-teaching home economics program are finding that new career opportunities are available when they complete minors in other departments.

Those choosing to enter the profession of dietetics via preparation for an internship are finding their insights broadened by the opportunities for coordinating didactic and clinical experiences. Miss Vivian Rockwood is Chairman of the Department.

Department of Industrial Education

The Industrial Education Department has two major program areas. They consist of an area concentration in Industrial Arts Education for prospective Industrial Arts teachers and an area concentration in Industrial Technology to prepare individuals for supervisory or industrial technologist positions in industry. The student may select a field of technical specialization in one of six areas of concentration within the industrial technology program. These areas include Building and Construction Technology, Graphics and Design Technology, Electronic Technology, Survey Technology Materials Technology and Metals and Mechanical Technology. Courses in these options may include: Plant Layout, Materials Testing, Industrial Materials, Structural Design, Automotive, Drafting, Instrument Technology, Time and Motion, Hydraulics and Pneumatics, Graphics Arts, Industrial Design, and a number of other technical related subjects.

The department offers a Master's degree program both in technology and education and provides coordination and service courses for pre-engineering, Manual Arts Therapy, and Driver Education.

This year, the Department was recognized by the Electronic Industries Association for its six outstanding summer workshops in the field of electronics. Chairman of the Department is Dr. Rollin Williams.

Division of Library Science

Library Science Education at East Tennessee State University is a division of the Department of Education. Its quarters are located on the fourth floor of the Charles C. Sherrod Library.

Two programs in library science are offered. They are as follows: (1) A basic program that prepares upper-division undergraduates and graduate students for entrance into graduate library schools and/or certification for employment as school-library-media specialists. (2) A graduate program designed for the advanced training of school-media specialists.

For the 1974-75 school year the division has held a twelve-month institute sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education for ten students. They received special training for work as media specialists in open-concept schools. Tuition costs and a small weekly stipend were paid each student by funds provided by the Higher Education Act, Title II-B. Eight graduate and two undergraduate students were chosen to participate in this program.

The division is an associate member of the Association of American Library Schools. Chairman of the Department is Mrs. Elise Barrette.

Department of Military Science

Military Science is a cooperative enterprise between the University and the United States Army in the educating of young men and women with leadership potential for positions within the defense structure of the United States. Students who elect to take Military Science (ROTC) receive classroom instruction in a variety of subjects and participate in leadership development laboratories. The Military Science Advanced Course is taken by students during the junior and senior year with cadets receiving instruction in a wide range of military subjects, engaging in applied leadership development, and attending a six-week period of intensive training at a Reserve Officers' Training Corps Advanced Camp. Enrichment subjects taught by other departments of the University are an integral part of the program. Military Science may be selected as a minor by a student who enters the Advanced Course. One, two, three and four-year scholarships are offered by the United States Army which pays tuition, books, fees, and a monthly stipend. Successful completion of the four-year Military Science program leads to commissioning as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army. Outstanding students designated as Distinguished Military Students are eligible for appointment as Regular Army Officers. Chairman of the Department is Col. John McGregor.

Department of Philosophy

The Philosophy Department, headed by Dr. Robert Botkin, turned its efforts toward offering courses of contemporary relevance. During the past year the Philosophy Department has offered courses in the occult, contemporary moral issues, women's liberation, and the ethnics of technology. Philosophy students also have had the opportunity to participate in interdepartmental film seminars devoted to an analysis of "Great Issues in American Society," and "Contemporary Films: A Search for Values."

A symposium on Population and Environmental Crisis featuring nationally prominent journalists, writers, and scholars was held by the Philosophy Department in conjunction with Earth Week.

Philosophy has served as a useful pre-professional course of study for law students, ministers, journalists, and others. For many students philosophy has helped to create a much needed sense of synthesis absent in this era of specialization and professional separatism. Departmental majors planning to enter graduate school in the discipline of philosophy may select from a wide variety of traditional courses in philosophy.

Department of Physical Education

In addition to providing activities designed to produce physical fitness, the Department of Physical Education offers unique opportunities, through its instructional program, for the development of useful sports skills. Instruction is provided in thirty-four lifetime activities, ranging from skiing to horseback riding. The emphasis is on individual and dual sports which give promise of usefulness as leisure activities.

A well-organized intramural program offers opportunity for competition and experience in a wide variety of sports. The department offers year-round programs in dance and gymnastics. The department also serves more than four hundred students in its undergraduate major and minor curriculum and some one hundred students in the graduate program. Dr. Sidney Rice is chairman of the department.

Department of Psychology

The Department of Psychology has been instrumental in developing several research projects which help to demonstrate research techniques for graduate and undergraduate students. These projects are as follows: (1) The effects of success and failure in a real life setting; performance attribution, affect and expectancy, (2) The development of distributive justice and sharing behavior in children, (3) The effect of tangible reinforcers on academic grades of adolescent males, and (4) reducing anxiety in asthma patients using EMG feedback.

During the summer of 1975 the department will have two workshops to enhance the performance of competencies in the area of counseling for public school counselors and school psychologists. These workshops will be conducted by specialists within the two areas from the East Tennessee area and from outside the areas. A conference is being planned for spring quarter to give students and faculty the opportunity to learn more about behavior modification and feedback.

Department of Reading

The ability to read continues to be a major factor in academic success at all levels. Because of this the Reading Department, headed by Dr. John Taylor, offers a variety of experiences for students. First, the department offers a college level reading-study skills course designed to help all students improve their abilities in these areas. The course is not designed for just those who are experiencing reading difficulty. Second, the department offers 21 courses which are designed to help teachers and prospective teachers improve their abilities to teach children to read. Although most of these courses are at the graduate level five of them are open to undergraduate students. Third, the department provides a diagnostic service for students and for area children. This service helps to pinpoint reading problems and suggests means of correcting them.

College of Health

The College of Health, one of the five colleges and two schools responsible for the instructional program of East Tennessee State University, offers a broad program of education and service. Through its seven departments it affords students the opportunity of study in many areas of the health field and provides certain services for students and the residents of the area served by the University.

The main purposes of the College of Health are: (a) to provide all students the opportunity to study and acquire knowledge in order that they may intelligently direct themselves and enjoy a healthful and satisfying life, (b) to study and prepare themselves for exciting and rewarding health careers, and (c) to provide certain health and remedial services.

The seven departments of the College of Health are:

1. Department of Associate Degree Nursing
2. Department of Baccalaureate Nursing
3. Department of Dental Hygiene
4. Department of Environmental Health
5. Department of Health Education
6. Department of Health Sciences
7. Department of Special Education

Department of Associate

Degree Nursing

The students in the Department of Associate Degree Nursing now have the opportunity to utilize a new independent study laboratory in their program of study.

The purpose of this laboratory is to permit the individual student to study and progress at his/her own rate. The course objectives and study guides are utilized as basic guidelines for this teaching-learning experience. Since the audio-visual material may be required in or supplemental to the course content, the nursing instructors are available at all times for resource information and/or special instruction.

Upper Right—Eleanor Lowry is Chairman of the A.D. Nursing Department.

Department of Baccalaureate Degree Nursing

The Department of Baccalaureate Degree Nursing aims to provide the profession and society with individuals who may assume positions of leadership in nursing practice and who may build a foundation for continuing education and for progression into graduate study if desired.

The Department offers a wide selection of nursing practicum electives so that the graduate may have expertise in one or more areas of nursing. Chairman of the Department is Mrs. Maria Hawkins.

Courses are taught by faculty with graduate preparation in the clinical area of teaching. Clinical practice is concurrent with theory so that the student learns by doing and learns to test principles in practice.

Department of Dental Hygiene

The Department of Dental Hygiene offers both two and four year programs. The two-year program enables the graduate to practice as a professional dental hygienist. The four year program leads to a B.S. degree.

The Dental Hygiene program calls for a high degree of individual motivation, good physical health, and manual dexterity. Instruction is individualized, and performance standards are exacting.

Department of Health Sciences

The Health Sciences Department is a multidisciplinary department comprising microbiology, biochemistry, and human anatomy, human physiology, and medical technology.

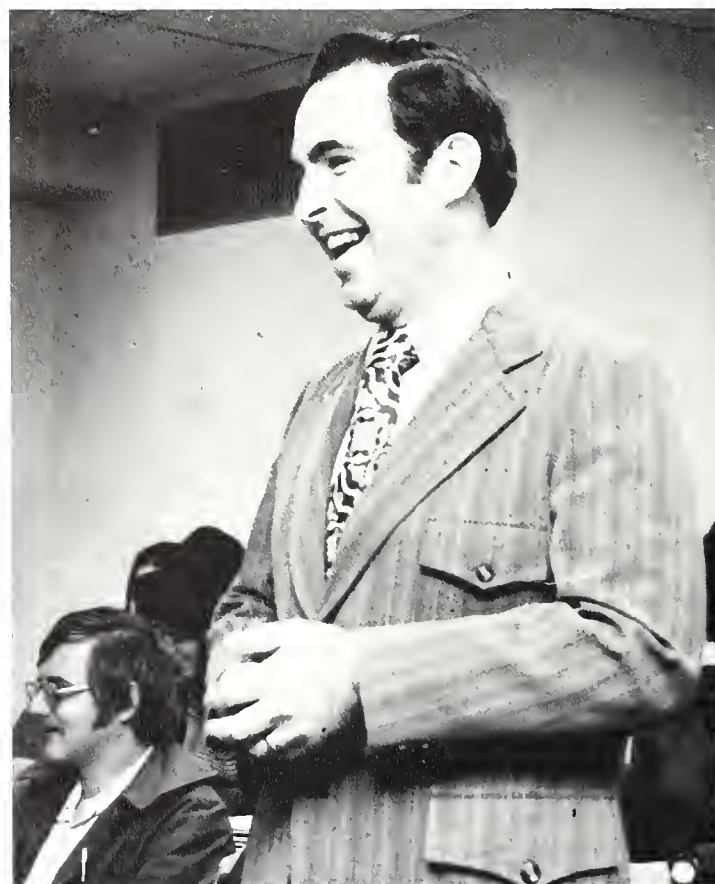

Research and seminars are integral parts of the department program. Chairman of the department is Dr. William Gaby.

Department of Health Education

A degree from the Department of Health Education will enable the graduate to teach health subjects in the level determined by the specific curriculum.

Courses offered deal with such subjects as personal health, safety and first aid, nutrition, microbiology, mental hygiene, and community health. Department chairman is Dr. Jay Allen.

Lower Right—Jay Allen is Chairman of Health Education.

Department of Environmental Health

The Department of Environmental Health endeavors to prepare environmentalists to work at local, state, and Federal agencies in environmental management. Environmentalists work in various areas such as air pollution, water pollution, solid waste management, and food management. In other words, the graduates of the department of Environmental Health endeavor to promote the health of the populace through environmental control. The department is headed by Dr. Monroe Morgan.

Music

Academic advancement is our true purpose in attending
E.T.S.U.

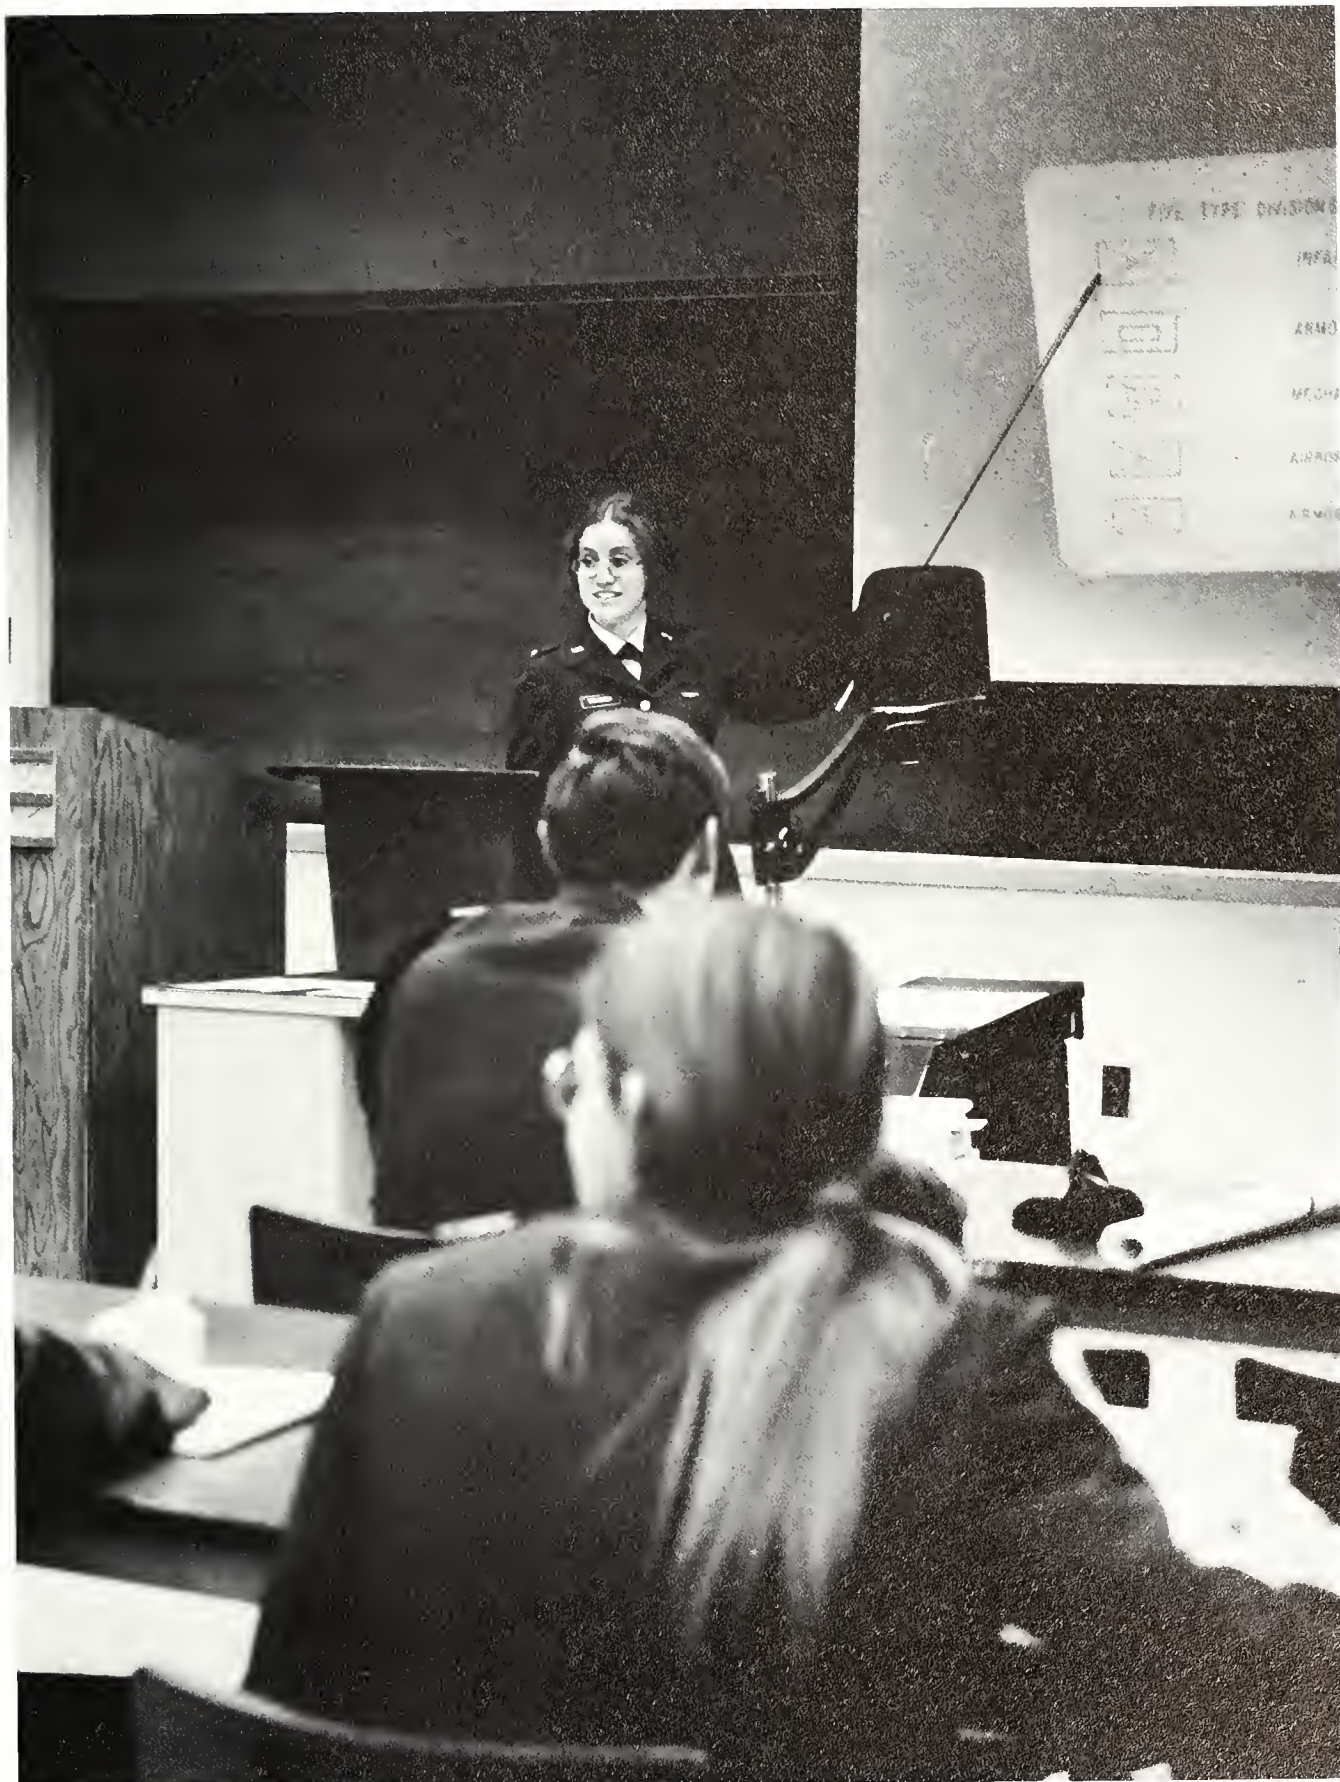

Our educational aims
cover a great variety of interests, and our occupational goals are equally diverse.

The library serves as an indispensable center for study, reference work, research, and paper writing;
combined with a certain amount of socializing.

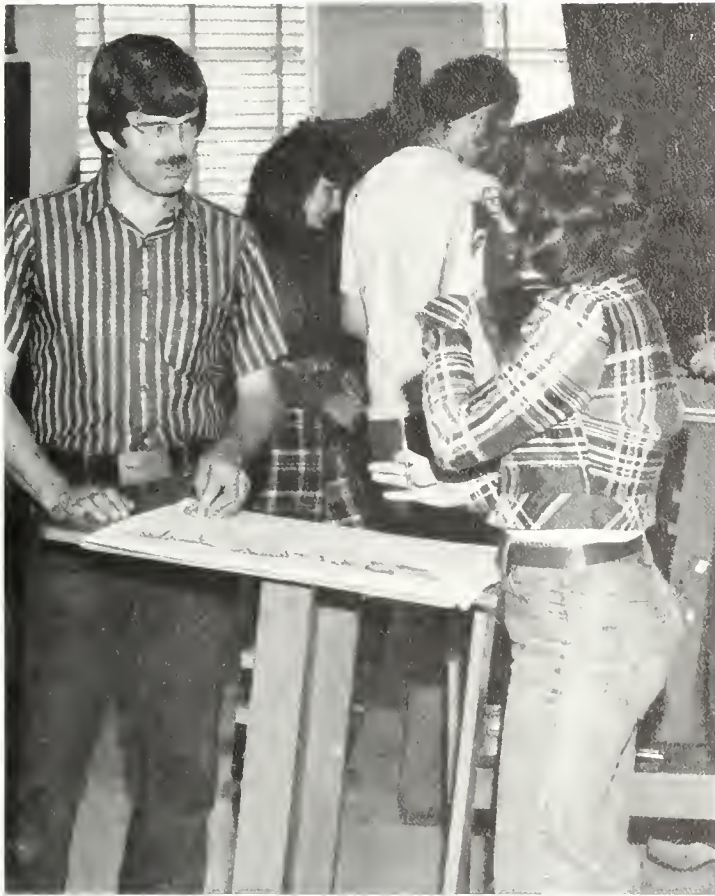

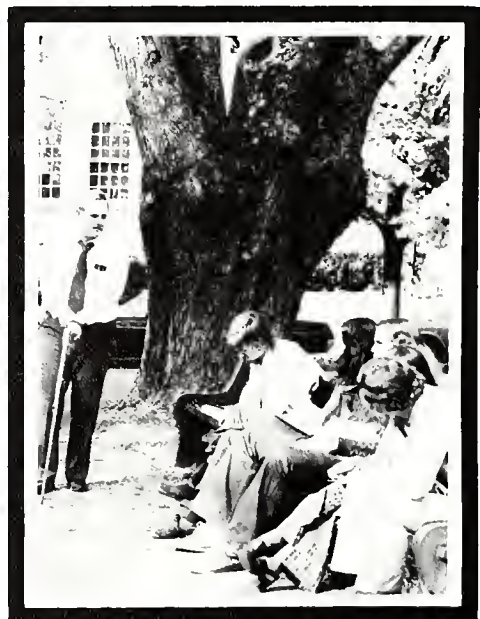

All types of equipment serve to aid us during our years at school;
but our most important “mechanical” asset is the mind.

This index is a listing of administrators, organizations, and major events.

Every year of life is spent reaching for individual goals and ideals ...

Those around us guide us—either toward or away from involvement.

Like children, we enter college apprehensive, but eager ...

To participate,
To live life to its fullest.

We seek, we follow the signs, we search for our identities.

Time showers opportunities upon us.

We join the crowd or listen to the music in our minds.

We become true students in the education of life,
Giving and sharing as we desire,
Being ourselves.

A Letter From the Editor

Working on the 1975 BUCCANEER has been a challenge for me. I have never undertaken such a big job. Many students will never realize the work that the yearbook staff put into this volume. Without staff contributions, the book would never have been completed.

I have always felt that East Tennessee State University has many things to offer its students. This is why I chose "Spirit and Involvement" as the theme for the 1975 BUCCANEER. Spirit can be found on this campus if students put forth a little time and effort. Involvement can be found around almost every corner for those who care to participate. It is my hope that every student will become involved with a campus activity. A student's hard work will lead to pride in the organization in which he is involved.

The Buccaneer staff has had many ups and downs during the year. I would like to thank those staff members who stuck it out with me until the final deadline. The staff was unable to meet a few of their previous goals. I hope that the quality of the BUCCANEER has not suffered because of this. I certainly feel that we all have something to be proud of.

I would like to express my gratitude to those persons who deserve it so much. Special thanks goes to Sam Sells who became "Chief Layout Whiz" for the staff. Don Carter, advisor, deserves my deepest appreciation for his advice and cooperation. For all his help in planning and working on the book a big thanks goes to Ron Wempe, Paragon Yearbook Representative. Thanks goes to Mr. Tom Daniel, photographer, for his patience and hard work. Other thanks go to John Cathey, Sports Information Director, who was always so willing to help with the Athletic section; Greek editor, Terry Burnett, who did a great deal more than her office indicated; Lynn Priest, Administration and Academic editor, who worked so hard on her section; Tom Bayless who stepped in late and finished the Athletics section early; Denny Darnell, East Tennessean editor, who loaned needed materials to the staff. And last, but certainly not least, I must thank everyone who typed, alphabetized and licked photo stickers, and cared about the 1975 BUCCANEER. I could never have done it without their help.

Sincerely,
Kathie Garland
Editor-in-Chief
